TO THE
RIGHT REVEREND FATHER IN GOD,

WILLIAM FITZGERALD, D.D.,
LORD BISHOP OF KILLALOE, KILFENORA, CLONFERT, AND KILMACDUAGH.

MY LORD,

The favour and condescension which I experienced from your Lordship while you so ably presided over the united diocese of Cork, Cloyne, and Ross,—the readiness with which you listened to my plans for publishing these records,—and the aid you afforded me by giving me access to the Visitation Books and other documents in the registries of Cork and Cloyne,—call for some acknowledgment on my part.

I therefore beg your Lordship to receive this dedication of a work which you have in some degree yourself encouraged, as a slight token of my gratitude for your kindness and admiration of the high qualities which distinguish you as a scholar, an author, and a divine.

But I am warned not further to express my sentiments or attempt your praise by the words employed by a learned man in reference to a famous writer and speaker of old. “Nemo illum satis ex merito laudare possit, aut de illo digne dicere, nisi qui illi in dicendo par sit aut similis.” I am too conscious of my inferiority to become your panegyrist; and, therefore, I content myself with being

Your Lordship's

Humble and obliged Servant,

THE PREFACE.

THE Ecclesiastical Records of Ireland have recently, in some degree, attracted the notice of the learned. DR. REEVES, DR. TODD, MR. E. P. SHIRLEY, the late DEAN BUTLER, the REV. J. C. CROSTHWAITE, MR. R. CAULFIELD, and others, have severally published works illustrative of the history of the Church, and have rescued many interesting and valuable documents from oblivion and decay. The succession of all Bishops and Cathedral Dignitaries in Ireland from ancient to modern times has also been recorded in a permanent form by ARCHDEACON HENRY COTTON, in his "Fasti Ecclesiæ Hibernicæ."

But no attempt has yet been made (except a few meagre lists of Incumbents in MASON'S "Parochial Survey") to trace the Parochial Clergy of Ireland from the period of the Reformation to the present time, or to extract from her own records the history of the Church.

Sad havoc among the materials for such a work was occasioned by the disturbances of 1641 and 1688, and since then the ignorance and carelessness of their custodians caused the destruction or loss of many a Parish Register and Visitation Book, which the wars had spared. Nor is it easy always to search the Diocesan Registries. Inquirers, armed with the permission of the Bishop, may yet be baffled by surly officials, or disconcerted by the want of proper catalogues and indexes, or driven away by dust and dirt before the musty and ill-scented documents be fully examined; besides, for the most part, the Visitation Books afford little information, save the names of the clergy, and their absence or attendance in particular years; the Books of Titles are very defective, and the Parish Registers are not, in general, of date more ancient than the latter part of the past century. The wills and marriage licences have, perhaps, been somewhat better attended to, for obvious reasons; and from them, as also from the Chapter Books of the Cathedrals, much valuable matter may be extracted. The Act-Books of the Episcopal Courts contain some items of intelligence respecting the clergy not of an agreeable nature, which may be gleaned by those who have patience to wade through a mass of rapidly-written lawyers' Latin, from frequent abbreviations always difficult, and sometimes impossible, to decipher.

More easy of access, though not easier to read, are the First Fruit records, or returns of spiritual promotions made by the Bishops to the Barons of the Exchequer, and now preserved in the Custom-house, Dublin, under the able care of Mr. HARDING. Of these, as well as of the Regal Visitation Books now in the libraries of Dublin University and of the Royal Irish Academy, an accurate description has been furnished by ARCHDEACON COTTON, who has likewise, in the preface to his "Fasti," given a useful account of the "Liber Munerum Hiberniæ," a book which contains, besides various other matters, a list of presentations made by the Crown to benefices in Ireland.

I now proceed to explain the plan which I have adopted in this work, which, it will be remembered, embraces only the clergy and parishes of Cork, Cloyne, and Ross.

With regard to the clergy;—I have given their succession to benefices, as far as it is now possible to trace them, with the dates of their admission or institution, specifying in every case the source from which the information has been derived. In very many parishes the succession of Incumbents appears to be complete for more than two centuries and a-half. The parentage, birth-place, college-matriculation, and university degree of the clergyman, have been stated in numerous instances, as well as his ordination and clerical appointments, his marriage, issue, and death. The published works and the charitable bequests of the clergy have been duly recorded, and in some cases brief genealogical accounts have been compiled. In order to show at a glance the clerical career of each clergyman, I have set down in one place, usually the last preferment which he held, all that I have collected concerning him from various sources; but as I had nothing except similarity of name and agreement of date to guide me in noting his preferments in other dioceses, I have been unable to secure absolute certainty in this respect. I must also warn the reader that I have purposely abstained from any effort after uniformity in the spelling of names, and have frequently written the name of the same person differently in the same page, just as my authorities gave it. I have not altered the Latinity and grammar of the ancient documents, nor have I suppressed a single fact therein recorded from any wish to conceal what might be judged discreditable to the Church.

With regard to the parishes;—I have extracted all the information I could concerning them from a variety of sources. Their ancient names, their value, their population, their unions, the state of their churches, the services celebrated, the particulars of glebe-houses and lands, the amount of rentcharge and composition for tithes—all these matters have been faithfully extracted from the proper authorities, both ancient and modern. I have transferred to my pages the whole of the valuable Visitation Books of 1591, of 1615, of 1634, of 1639, and of 1669. The Diocesan Returns, made in 1693, agreeably to Mr. Secretary Aldworth's letter from the Council, have been obtained, through Dr. REEVES, from Armagh Registry by the kind permission of HIS GRACE THE LORD PRIMATE, and are now printed, those for Cork separately, those for Cloyne and Ross under their respective parishes. The whole of BISHOP DIVE DOWNES' Tour through the dioceses of Cork and Ross in 1699 and following years, has also been incorporated into this work, as well as the Parliamentary returns printed about 1807 and 1837. The accounts of the several parishes of the diocese in 1860 have been furnished partly by the clergy themselves, in answer to printed queries sent to every Incumbent, partly by other trusted correspondents, and in part has been the result of my own personal observation and inquiries. The amount of tithe-rentcharge may sometimes be a little under or over stated, by reason of the shifting value of the corn averages; but, on the whole, these statistics will be found sufficiently correct for all public purposes.

In a publication like this it is evident that no amount of care can exclude errors and omissions. I shall thankfully receive notices of both from any of my readers, and I shall print corrections and additions along with the concluding portion of this work.

It now becomes my pleasing task to offer my cordial thanks to those persons who have aided me in this laborious and expensive undertaking. I need not, of course, mention, what is now so well known, that the visiter to the Bodleian at Oxford, the Museum, State Paper Office, &c., in London, the Libraries of Trinity College, and of the Royal Irish Academy, in Dublin, will meet with civility and attention. I will merely say, that in my case I was assisted most materially, and was spared much time and labour, by the unexpected personal kindness which I met with in my researches. To the REV. DR. TODD, S.F.T.C.D., my thanks are especially due, for his help in consulting various manuscripts; as well as to SIR THOMAS PHILLIPPS, Baronet, F.R.S., of Middle-hill, Worcestershire, for the opportunity which he gave me of examining several MSS. relating to Ireland. SIR BERNARD BURKE, Ulster, afforded me access to the valuable records in his department, and obliged me with particular facilities. The Lords of the Treasury also gave me liberty to consult, free of charge, certain documents in the Dublin offices under their control.

I have to thank the present Bishop of Killaloe, WILLIAM FITZGERALD, lately Lord Bishop of Cork, Cloyne, and Ross, for admission to the registries of the diocese, as also for liberty to make extracts from the valuable MSS. of Bishop Bennet. Without his aid and approval I should not have been able to compile these records.

THE VENERABLE S. M. KYLE, V.G., ARCHDEACON of CORK, the VENERABLE ROBERT MAUNSELL EVANS, ARCHDEACON of CLOYNE, the VENERABLE ALEXANDER STUART, ARCHDEACON of ROSS, and the REV. W. ROGERS, Registrar of Cloyne, have kindly, from time to time, sent me various items of information.

I am indebted to DR. GRAVES, of Brigowne, for the opportunity of making extracts from a copy of the Chapter Book of Cloyne, which was written by REV. JAMES HINGSTON, A.M., and by him left among the Parish Records of Brigowne. This copy of Cloyne Chapter Book was particularly serviceable, as it so happened that, from causes not necessary to specify, I could not obtain access to the original Chapter Books either of Cork, or Cloyne, or Ross.

I am also indebted to JOHN RIBTON GARSTIN, esq., A.M., M.R.I.A., for his assistance on several occasions during the progress of this work.

MR. W. B. KELLY, Bookseller, of 8, Grafton-street, Dublin, very kindly placed at my disposal for examination the manuscript papers of the late JAMES FREDERICK FERGUSON, esq., of the Exchequer Record Office, Dublin, which contain most valuable information, chiefly relating to ecclesiastical affairs, such as advowsons, impropriations, and the property of monasteries and other religious foundations in Ireland.

To my very numerous correspondents, whose names are not mentioned for obvious reasons, I am indebted for the courtesy and patience with which my genealogical inquiries have been, in most cases, entertained.

It would be unjust, however, not to offer my most grateful thanks to the following gentlemen: the REV. AUBREY TOWNSEND, B.D., of Weston-super-Mare; JOHN NICHOLAS CROFTS ATKINS DAVIS, F.R.C.S.I., M.R.C.S.I., Deputy Inspector-General of Army Hospitals, &c., of 20, Waterloo-road, Dublin; the REV. SAMUEL HAYMAN, of Ardnegihy, Cork; DENIS O'CALLAGHAN FISHER, esq., of Brunswick-street, Dublin; and RICHARD CAULFIELD, B.A., F.S.A., Corresp. Mem. Soc. Antiq., Normandy, &c., &c., of Cork. They have been ever ready to afford me the aid of their sympathy, counsel, and knowledge. They have contributed largely of their genealogical and antiquarian lore to these pages, and on every occasion have shown unselfishness and liberality in imparting the most valuable information.

STATE OF CORK AND ROSS DIOCESES in 1693.

The following account of the Dioceses of Cork and Ross is taken from the general returns made in 1693 by the several Diocesans, in compliance with Mr. Secretary Aldworth's letter from the Council. The original returns for Cork and Ross, occupying ten sheets oblong folio, written facie for the most part, are certified under the hand and seal of the Vicar-General, Rev. Walter Neale, and are endorsed "Status Diœces' Corcag' et Rossen' transmittetr Honorabil' Dominis Capital' Justiciariis Hibniæ Anno Domini 1693." The transcript from which they are now printed was made from the originals in Armagh Registry, by Edward Rogers, Esq., under the guidance of Dr. Reeves, and with the permission of His Grace the LORD PRIMATE.

BISHOP PALLISER'S REMARKS ON CLOYNE.

BISHOP PALLISER'S REMARKS on the STATE of the DIOCESE of CLOYNE, A.D. 1694, with his Plan for Unions of Parishes.*

[“This is the first sheet of the Return, and is entirely in Bishop Palliser's handwriting.”—W. R.]

The Right Honourable the Lords Justices of this kingdom having been graciously pleased to allow me to take mine own time in returning to their Lordships the present state of the diocese of Cloyne, I have been the more diligent in drawing a full representation of the same, and with much ado at length, by gentle means (and I was unwilling to use any other), have generally prevailed on the clergy (a very few excepted), to give in the present value of their several livings. I suspect I may be guilty of mistakes in some particulars, being a perfect stranger in this diocese (country), till about nine months ago; but I have endeavoured to be exact, and believe the main substance of the following account to be very true, and for clearing some particulars which may seem liable to exception, I humbly desire these few things may be noted.

1. That many livings of this diocese being very mean, there's a necessity of conferring four or five on one person, to afford him but a very ordinary subsistence. But if the numerous impropriations in this diocese were restored to the Church, this inconvenience might be in a great measure remedied.

2. That the present poverty of the people is the great reason why divers churches in this diocese are not rebuilt and repaired; but if it please God to continue peace in this country, I doubt not but in a few years most of the churches that are fallen to ruin, necessary to be rebuilt and repaired, will be made fit for divine service.

3. That the clergy in giving in the present value of their livings have made deductions for what they yearly pay out of them, which is a considerable sum. And the present value of many livings amounts not near to what it was before the late war, much land still lying waste, several parts of this diocese being much infested by rapparees.

4. That there has been a great neglect in this diocese of making unions of contiguous livings before the expiration of the Act of Parliament in King Charles II.'s time for that effect. But I have at the end of this paper drawn a scheme of convenient unions, which it may be fit to consider when it shall please their gracious Majesties, their Parliament, to take this matter into consideration. It would be a great service done to this church to redress that ecclesiastical grievance, that one clergyman should possess several benefices with cure in the same diocese, which are so far from being contiguous that they are sometimes at ten or twenty miles distant.

5. That the Bishop of Cloyne, in February last, received a letter from Secretary Aldworth, by order of the Lords Justices, that he should give no disturbance to Mr. William Jephson, Dean of Lismore, as to those livings he holds in this diocese, upon occasion of his absence, now near a whole year in England. Unto which order the Bishop hath paid that dutiful respect which became him, but humbly tenders the truth of the case to their Lordships' consideration, that the said William Jephson has several livings in other dioceses to the value of near £300 a-year, and yet resides upon none of them; and that above three years ago he obtained a patent for some considerable benefices with cure in this diocese, named Ardagh and Clonpriest, and yet to this day never came to the Bishop to take institution and induction upon his patent, so that these livings are still in law void; and it is in the power of the Chief Governors to give them unto them that will personally serve the cure, and not run away with the entire profit of these livings, and do nothing for it, as Mr. William Jephson, for above these three years, has done. Moreover, he is as yet no actual Chaplain to any regiment, but (as the Bishop is well informed), only designed to be a Chaplain to Colonel Colthorpe's regiment, which is to be raised here in Ireland. It is certainly no slender abuse in the church, for a man who never did nor ever is likely to do any service to the church to run away with the profit of two considerable livings upon a bare presentation which gives no legal title; and when he is required by the Bishop to come out of England (which he is not so sick but he might very easily do) and be admitted into those livings, pursuant to his patent, to prevent the Bishop's sequestration, instead of complying with the Bishop's most just order, he gets an injunction from the Government, upon a false suggestion, to tie up the Bishop's hands, that he cannot handle such a man as he deserves.

6. That the two livings of Ardagh and Clonpriest (which Dean William Jephson has had a patent for above these three years, yet hitherto has neglected to be inducted, and instituted into them) ought, in all reason, to be otherwise disposed of, Ardagh to go along with the curacy of Youghall, and Clonpriest with the deanery of Cloyne, as will appear by the following state of them both.

THE STATE of the RECTORY of ARDAGH, yearly value about 24 pounds, now legally void in the King's presentation.

The rectory of Ardagh was formerly a member of the Collegiate Church of Youghall, being contiguous thereunto, until, upon the dissolution of that college, it was divided from it, with the rest of the parishes thereunto belonging; and though all the parishes thereby came to be in the King's presentation, yet it was still thought fit that the parish of Ardagh should be given to the Curate of Youghall (whose cure is very great, much the greatest in the diocese, and his maintenance otherwise inconsiderable), and by him it was constantly enjoy'd in a continued succession of Curates from this said dissolution unto the year 1672, or thereabouts, when falling void upon the cession of the then Incumbent, and the succeeding Curate of Youghall being negligent in taking out the King's presentation to it, Mr. William Fitzgerald, then Dean of Cloyn, passed his Majesty's patent for it; thereupon was instituted, inducted into it, continued ever since in the possession thereof, until he was promoted to the bishoprick of Clonfert, by which promotion it became vacant again, and so continues to this very day, Mr. William Jephson, Dean of Lismore, having only a bare presentation thereunto. The inhabitants of the parish of Ardagh all go to divine service in the Church of Youghall, so that nothing in all the diocese of Cloyn is so proper to be perpetually united to the cure of Youghall, if a vicarage were endowed there, nor in the interim so convenient to be given to the Curate of Youghall, for his maintenance in that great cure; all the maintenance he at present has for serving that cure being given him by the Bishop out of the revenue of the bishoprick, which is itself so small that 'tis scarce able to support a Bishop according to the dignity of his place and station. Upon these considerations, in all humility offer'd to the Government, the Bishop of Cloyn earnestly begs that the Lords Justices would be pleased to grant this rectory of Ardagh, now legally void, and in their disposal, to the present Curate of Youghall, Mr. Mathew Jones, for his better maintenance in discharging much the greatest cure in the whole diocese of Cloyn, especially the Curates of Youghall having ever enjoyed the said rectory of Ardagh by the favour of the Government, until of late years it was wrested from them.

THE STATE of the RECTORY of CLONPRIEST, usurped also by Dean William Jephson, but legally void in the King's presentation.

The rectory of Clonpriest, in the diocese of Cloyn, no slender cure, worth about 70 pounds, yearly, has, for above three score years, gone along with the deanery of Cloyn (the deanery is a very inconsiderable thing without it); but falling void by the promotion of the late Dean of Cloyn, Mr. William Fitzgerald, to the bishoprick of Clonfert, Mr. William Jephson by subtile artifice pass'd a patent for it, wrested it from the deanery, when his Majesty really intended it for the present Dean of Cloyn, Mr. Henry Scardeville, Chaplain to Duke Schomberg; but Mr. William Jephson having only a bare presentation to the rectory of Clonpriest, and hitherto neglecting to be by the Bishop instituted and inducted thereunto, it is still void in law, and ought, in great reason, by the gracious pleasure of the Government to be reannexed to the deanery of Cloyn (to which it long appertained), to render it somewhat considerable.

COUNTY OF CORK GRAND JURY PRESENTMENTS.

1679. (Fo. 23.) March 17. We find and present that there ought to be a free school erected within the diocess of Corke, and that a convenient place be agreed on between the Bishop of Corke and city of Corke for the same, and that the city and liberties of Corke are in the diocess of Corke, and therefore are obliged to contribute to the building the said school. We therefore find and present that one hundred pounds be raised on that part of the diocess of Corke which lies within the county of Corke, and the summe collected be paid to Alexander Piggot, esq., &c., provided always that the said Piggott shall not issue warrants for the collection of the same, until first the city and commonalty of Corke shall raise an equal summe to what is raised on this county, &c.—as also shall, under their seal, convey to the Rt. Rev. the Bishop of the diocess the ground pitched on for the said school, as also oblige themselves to keep the same in perpetual repair, the which, if they shall fail of doing, &c., the said Piggott shall desist from issuing out the warrant aforesaid.
- An. 1679. (Fo. 23.) A receiver or accomptant for the county is appointed. Will. Hull, of Burdanstown is made receiver. He is allowed 12*d.* per pound for all that he shall receive over and above what he shall lay out for warrants.
1680. (Fo. 24.) The Clerk of the Crown and Peace's fees settled. He is to have 2*s.* 6*d.* for one warrant for moneys raised for the county's use by one presentment, and shall sign the rest gratis for all the money not exceeding 4*d.* per plowland ; and for moneys exceeding 4*d.* per plowland, his usual fees of 2*s.* 6*d.* for every warrant issued to the several baronies in the said county. Warrants for money for prisoners to be signed by him gratis.
1680. (26.) We desire the Bishop of the diocess and the High Sheriff of the county to meet, and to pitch upon a convenient place for building of a school in the diocese, according to the statute.
- (27.) Sixty pounds to be raised out of that part of the county of Corke that lies in the diocese of Corke, for the erecting of a school, according to act of parliament, to be applotted according to the deficiency of the year's value.

The Bishop of Corke, Will. Mead, esq., &c., are made overseers of the work, provided that, before the said summe be raised or applotted, a place where the school shall be built be made over to the Bishop of Corke and his successors for the perpetual use of the said school, and also that the same be kept in repair by the said city of Corke.

1680 (fo. 28). No person to act as Attorney, Clerk of the Crown or Peace, &c., but such as are of the Protestant religion, and take the oaths of allegiance and supremacy.

1681 (fol. 29). Raising money by the plowland is thought unequal ; we, therefore, present that, for the future, all money be raised in this county according to the deficiency of the year's value.

Whereas the several parishes following, of Killmeen, Drishane, Drumtariffe, Cullen, and Nohoval, in the county of Cork, and diocess of Aghadoe, have agreed that the churches of Killmeen and Dryshane be rebuilt, &c. ; we, therefore, have agreed that 6s. 6d. per plowland in Dryshane, Cullen, and Nohoval, be raised for repair of church of Dryshane, &c. ; and that 4s. 6d. per plowland be raised in the parishes of Killmeene and Drumbarry, for rebuilding the church of Killmeene.

prison, so dispeopling the country, &c. ; that, therefore, your Lordships would favourably represent the same to the Government, or otherwise make such order that may hinder these inconveniences ; and the rather, because the like duties are not demanded in any other Christian country by the clergy, nor from any other but the Roman Catholicks, who, by his Majesty's proclamation for liberty of conscience, are equally freed from all exactions and penalties, with all others differing from the Church of England.

Concerning Pet. Murragh, Tit. Vicar-General, December, 1701.

Peter Murragh was formerly, upon a Commission of Oyer and Terminer, tried for staying in the kingdom, contrary to the Act for banishing the Titular Archbishops, &c.

He was charged with being Vicar-General of Corke. The evidence against him not being strong enough for his conviction, he was discharged. This happened about three years ago.

Some months ago Peter Murrogh, by vertue of a warrant, with a mittimus contained in it from Alderman Newinham, was seized by a Constable in Corke, and committed to the city gaol, as Popish Vicar-General of Corke.

'Tis said that Peter Murrogh since his tryal did own to Alderman Newinham that he had been formerly Vicar-General of Corke, and that this was the ground of his commitment. He owned also he was Vicar-General to the Constable.

There are three books of the county Corke. In the custody of the Treasurer of the county of Corke, is (1) a large parchment book, in folio, intituled—"A Survey of the county of Corke, abstracted out of the Survey remaining upon record in the Surveyor-General's Office, subscribed by Vin. Gookin, Surveyor-General." This seems to be the oldest and most unperfect of the three books of Survey in the said Treasurer's hands. It seems to be abstracted out of the Survey of only the forfeited lands taken in Cromwell's time.

2. A large book of maps, describing the unforfeited lands in the county of Corke. Two or three parishes are usually described in one map. On the opposite side to the map, are in several columns set down, the proprietors' names, denominations of the lands, quantity of acres by admeasurement, lands profitable, and lands unprofitable. On the other side is a transcript of the first page of this book. This admeasurement was made ann. 1659.

3. A paper book, in folio, which contains a description of all the lands forfeited and unforfeited in the county of Corke, without maps. As for the unforfeited lands, it agrees for the most part with the parchment book aforesaid, so that it does in a manner contain both the above said books. On the third page of this paper is a transcript of the first page of this book.

Part of this book contains the admeasurement made by a resolve of the Commissioners of Assessment for the county of Corke, bearing date Sept. 6, 1659.

AN INDEX of the BARONIES' NAMES, and QUANTITIES of ACRES in each of them, is in the BOOK (No. 2) of MAPS of UNFOR-FEITED LANDS.

"Letter to the Lord Archbishop of Cashel concerning the Guardian of the Spiritualties." Nov. 13, '94.

MY LORD—As to the Queeres, my present thoughts upon them are these—that the Archbishop is Guardian of the Spiritualties in the vacancy of the Bishoprics in his province ; this the authorities cited by Godolphin seem to prove ; unless there be some particular constitution to the contrary. [Godolph., Abridge., p. 41—Sed Quære.] And, besides, I think I have heard that it is so in the province of Ardmagh, and I do believe it is so in this province, but I have not time now to enquire particularly into it. I suppose he has by some act acknowledged you to be Guardian of the Spiritualities.

As to the second.—I suppose the power of the Vicar-General ceases upon the vacancy of the Bishopric—so says Barbosa de jure ecclesi., de vicar., et coadj. epi. No. 44 ; and I know, that Sir John Topham, upon the vacancy of the See of Dublin, takes out a new commission from the Deans and Chapters of Christchurch and St. Patrick's, as Guardians of the Spiritualities, and besides a Vicar-General has very rarely the power of institution granted to him in his commission.

As to the third.—I suppose he may be cited and censured in your court, and the institution be declared null unless there be some particular constitution or prescription in the diocese of Cloyne, which makes the Deane and Chapter Guardian of the Spiritualities, and that he acted by virtue of a commission from them ; and I don't know what other court can properly take cognizance of it. [6th Dec., de off. vic. c. p. Amana Ecclesia.]

As to the last.—I suppose there lyes no appeal from Cashel to the Primate, that province being no way subordinate to the See of Ardmagh, the Primate having no authority but in his own province, unless it be in wills and faculties for as much as I know of the matter, so that if there be any appeal it must be to the King in Chancery.

Your predecessor, Marsh, told me, that in the last vacancy of the See of Killalloe, he granted a commission for the administration of the Spiritualities. The Primate was Guardian of the Spiritualities when Dromore was last vacant.

If neither the Archbishop of Cashel nor the Dean and Chapter shew any precedents nor prescription, the question will then be—to whom of common right the Guardianship of the Spiritualities does belong ? The books generally say, that the Dean and Chapter, of common right, are Guardians of the Spiritualities—sede vacante, custodia spiritualium et temporalium de jure communi pertinet ad capitulum. [Lyndwood.]

The lawyers say the common law of England is the same with the common law of Ireland.

When there is a controversy between a Bishop and Archbishop concerning jurisdiction, the King is to declare their bounds. [Godolph., p. 18.]

The Archbishop may not exercise his jurisdiction over the subjects of his suffragan but in certain cases. Hostiensis enumerates twenty-one cases. [Godolph., p. 19.]

The King's letter [is necessary] to stop any patent ; so that, I suppose, your patent will remain of force.

But the case of the institution is not altered, but is voyd now if it was so before; and the person that instituted may be proceeded against for meddling with a thing that he had no right to meddle in.

The persons that had grants of the livings have been delay'd, it seems, so long, that there has been opportunity given to defeat their grants.

1817. July 19. THOMAS PHILIP LE FANU, A.M., R. Ardneghiy. [F.F.] Certified under £500 per annum. [D.R.]

Thomas Philip Le Fanu was ordained deacon on 30th April, 1809, by Bp. of Clonfert; and priest on 16th September, 1810 by the same Bishop. He was appointed Assistant Chaplain of the Lying-in Hospital, Dublin, in 1809, and was afterwards one of the Curates of St. Mary's, Dublin, which laborious post he continued to occupy until 1815, when he was selected by Lord Whitworth, the Lord Lieutenant, as Chaplain of the Royal Hibernian School in the Phoenix Park. In 1817 he was promoted to the Rectory of Ardnegihy, and in November, 1823, to that of Abingdon, Emly dioc. He was made Dean of Emly in 1826, but retaining Abingdon. He died on 24th June, 1845, and was buried at Abingdon. His talents as a preacher were of a high order, and he was of refined manners and cultivated mind. His amiability endeared him to his friends, and his benevolence to the poor. He was A.M. and LL.D. of T.C.D.

He was the representative of a noble Huguenot family of Normandy, possessing in that province, and chiefly in the généralité of Caen, many estates, among which were Mondeville, Sequeville, Cresseron, &c. The certificate of Noblesse, officially signed by Guy Chamillart, bearing date 1671, and now in possession of J. S. Le Fanu, esq., of Merrion-square, Dublin, proves their nobility by charter to the year 1595.

On the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, they were deprived of their estates; but having relatives of influence in the Court of Louis XIV., they were permitted to leave France with their personal property, without molestation. Two members of this family, John Le Fanu de Sequeville, and Charles Le Fanu de Cresseron, held cavalry commissions in the army of William III. Charles was upon the King's staff, a brave and excellent officer, and distinguished by being presented from William's hand with his portrait. He afterwards served as major of dragoons under Marlborough. Early in the last century William Le Fanu was the sole representative of this family. He married Henrietta Raboteau de Puggibaut, the only surviving daughter of a Huguenot family, also noble. Her escape from France, when still a child, was accomplished under circumstances of romantic danger, and by the aid and contrivance of a Roman Catholic uncle, who held a considerable post in the Court of France. Of this marriage there were issue several children, sons, who, with the exception of Joseph, all entered the army or the church.

Joseph held the office of Clerk of the Coast in Ireland, and was the eldest of these sons who died leaving issue; by his first marriage to Anne Franklin, he had one son only, William Le Fanu, called to the Irish Bar, who died unmarried in 1817, and is very honourably recorded in Warburton's History of the City of Dublin.

Joseph Le Fanu, married secondly, Alicia, daughter of Thomas Sheridan, and sister of the Right Honourable Richard Brinsley Sheridan. Of this marriage there were three children, who, except the eldest, Thomas Philip Le Fanu, the subject of this notice, died unmarried. His (Joseph's) brother, Captain Henry Le Fanu, of Leamington, co. Warwick, married Elizabeth, the only other sister of R. B. Sheridan.

Dean Thomas Philip Le Fanu, married, in 1812, Emma Lucretia, daughter of the Rev. William Dobbin, F.R.C.D. and D.D., Rector of Finglass and of St. Mary's, Dublin (by his wife Catherine, youngest daughter of Robert Coote, esq., of Ash-hill, co. Limerick, and aunt of Sir Charles Coote, of Ballyfin, bart.) Of this marriage there were three children, Catherine Frances, who died unm.; Joseph Sheridan, barrister, who m. Susan, d. of the late George Bennett, q.c., of Merriion-square, Dublin, and has issue two sons and two daughters; and William Richard, civil engineer, who m. Henrietta, youngest d. of the late Sir Matthew Barrington, baronet, and has issue three sons and one daughter. [F.F.]

1822. Edward Hudson, M.D., of Dublin (famous for his skill in dental surgery), who had, in 1797, given the site of the church; by his will, dated 9 Sept., 1816, and proved 14 Feb., 1822, in Dublin, bequeathed £500 to assist the public in erecting, in Glenville (Ardnegilhy) church-yard, a hollow cone or pyramid for performing his experiments on the pendulum, and for elucidating the phenomena of comets, planets, &c. He desired to be buried in a vault beneath this pyramid. He was father of Edward Gustavus Hudson, Dean of Armagh.

1823. Novem. 18. RICHARD DEANE FREEMAN, A.B., per cess. Lefanu, R. Ardnegilhy. [F.F.] This appointment was by the Marquess Wellesley, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, to whom the nomination was yielded by the Bishop, in courtesy, as the former Incumbent was promoted by the Crown.

1831. Protestant population, 98.

1837. Ardnegilhy. A rectory entire, with cure; 12 miles long by 8 broad, containing 15,546 acres and 3 roods. Gross population, 3,715. One Curate employed, at an annual stipend of £69 4s. 7½d., British. Composition for tithes, £438 9s. 3d. 64 acres, 3 roods, and 7 perches of glebe, valued at £20. Subject to visitation fees, 10s. 6d.; diocesan schoolmaster, 13s. 2d. No glebe-house. Incumbent is non-resident, from inability of procuring accommodation in the parish: he resides at Charleston, near Middleton. One church, capable of accommodating 200 persons, built about the year 1798, at the cost of £461 10s. 9½d. Brit., granted as gift by the late Board of First Fruits. No charge on the parish in 1832 on account of the church. Divine Service is celebrated once on all Sundays, and on the principal festivals. The Sacrament is administered on the three great festivals. [Par. Rep.]

1860. Value £321. The church in good repair. A vestry was built for this church by the Rev. Samuel Dickson Sandes, formerly Curate of the parish. There is no font. The Communion plate consists of a cup and flagon silvered, the former gilt inside.

There is no glebe-house nor glebe. There was formerly a glebe of 40 acres, for which a fine of £200 was paid by Board of First Fruits, and a rent agreed on of £30 per an.; but as the agreement was made on an insufficient stamp, the proprietor (Dean Hudson) enclosed these lands in his demesne, and the Incumbent of Ardnegihy was thus deprived of a site on which he had arranged to build a glebe-house, with the help of a loan from Board of First Fruits of £900. Incumbent resides at Fermoy, 10 miles off, and frequently officiates in his church. Curate is constantly resident. Service is celebrated at noon on Sundays, and the four chief festivals. Sacrament monthly. Average of communicants is 7. No school. Protestant population, 40.

Richard Deane Freeman, third son of Edward Deane Freeman, of Castlecor (for a full account of the ancient families of Deane and Freeman, and their alliances to noble houses, vide Burke's L. G.), was born at Castlecor, co. Cork, on 11 August, 1789, and was a fellow-commoner of T.O.D., where he graduated with distinction in 1811, and subsequently became A.M.

He was ordained Deacon by Bp. of Cloyne, on 30 Nov., 1811; and Priest in 1812, by Bp. of Limerick, on letters dimissory from Cloyne.

In 1812 he was Curate of Mallow; and in September, 1813, was licensed to Middleton curacy. He was domestic Chaplain for some time to the late Earl of Shannon.

He married, at Kilkenny, in 1812, Ellen, d. of Rev. Rowland Davies, by whom he had issue, six sons (of whom but three, Edward, Rowland, and Richard, now survive), and five daughters, Elizabeth, Mary Jane (died 1861), Ellen, Frances, and Wilhelmina. The youngest son married Miss Rush, d. of Ambrose Rush, J.P., of Taylor's Hill, Galway. One of the daughters, Ellen, is wife to Captain Hamilton Thompson, 59th Regt. Another, Frances, married Major Henry Robert Crew Godley, late of H. M. 28th Regt. [F.P.]

Rev. R. D. Freeman died at Clifton, near Fermoy, on 12th of January, 1863.

1863. Feb. 17. SAMUEL HAYMAN was appointed by the Bishop R. Ardnegihy. His collation will be hereafter mentioned.

S. Hayman (eldest son of Matthew Hayman, esq. of South Abbey, Youghal, by Helen, third dau. of Arundel Hill, esq. of Doneraile), was born at Youghal on 27th July, 1818. He was educated at Youghal by Rev. Thomas Nolan, and afterwards at Clonmel by Rev. Robert Bell, D.D. He entered T.C.D. as a Fellow Commoner on 18th October, 1835, and graduated A.B. on 2nd July, 1839.

He was ordained Deacon at Cork on 19th September, 1841, and Priest at Killaloe on 14th August, 1842.

From 1841 to 1847 he was Curate of Glanworth ; from 1847 to 1849 Curate of Glanmire ; and from 1849 to 1863 Curate of Youghal.

He married, at St. Anne's, Belfast, on 26th September, 1854, Emily, dau. (by his first wife, Henrietta, dau. and co-heiress of Samuel Jackson, esq.) of the Rev. Marcus Cassidy, Chancellor of Kilsenora, and Incumbent of Newtownards, co. Down ; and by her has issue an only child, Emily-Henrietta-Aline Hayman.

For an account of the very ancient family of Hayman vide Rev. Atkin Hayman, V. Ballyclogh, Cloyne, who was the great grandfather of Rev. Samuel Hayman.

The pen of the Rev. Samuel Hayman, during the intervals of parochial duty in the important parishes where he laboured so faithfully as a Curate, has not been idle. He has contributed articles, in prose and verse, too numerous to mention in detail, to various periodicals, including the Dublin University Magazine, the Christian Examiner, the Gentleman's Magazine, and the Patrician ; of which latter work the fifth volume was inscribed by the editor, Sir Bernard Burke, Ulster, to the Rev. Samuel Hayman, as "one of the ablest contributors to the pages of the Patrician, and a constant coadjutor in the author's genealogical works." He has also published the following works :—

BALLINABOY.

The successions to the curacy of Ballinaboy and of all the other inappropriate parishes in this diocese, are irregular, and for some periods of time not accounted for: when the curacy was vacant, the duties were performed by the neighbouring clergymen.

1291. Ecclesia de Boye is rated at 12 marks.
Ecclesia de Belachssrihrad, rated at 10 marks. [Tax P. Nic.]
Between Cullen and Pollypliche. Could this be Ballinhassig?

Kilpatrick, Tracton, and Inskenny. [V.B., D.R.]

boy, Kilmoney, Barnahely, Kilpatrick, Tracton, Ballyfiard,

He appears 1699. [V.B., D.R.]

1699. No church. Many Protestants, who go to Ballinmartel. The inhabitants made a proposal for building a church in this parish. [V.B. 1699, D.D.]

"1699. August 18. Ballinebury, upon the river half way betwixt Corke and Kinsale; the church ruinous; the walls were built without lime. Major Rigg's monument there: this church is conveniently situated for several parishes."

"Sept., 1700. I saw Ballinebury church; 'twas rebuilt this last summer with stone and clay, and plaister'd within and slated, but not glaz'd; they were about finishing of it. This church was rebuilt by a voluntary contribution of the parishioners. I gave £5 towards it. It is about 30 foot long, and 18 broad. It stands on the south of the river Bury, at about 200 yards distance from it."

"Sept. 28, 1700. Saw Rinnmahon Church, on the south of the river Lee, a mile and a-half below Corke. The church stood about 200 yards distant from the village called Ballintemple, upon the rising ground. The walls of the church are almost quite ruinous, and the bounds of the church-yard are hardly discernible. Ballintemple is one plowland in the parish of Rinnmahon. All the tythes of this parish belong to the œconomy of St. Barry's, worth about £30 per an. The lands of this parish belong to Mr. Coppinger, Mr. Roch, Major Clayton. Mr. Coppinger forfeited, in the late rebellion, his interest, being two plowlands. Mr. Synge, as Prebendary of Christ Church, has one plowland, where the black rock is, in this parish, set for about £30 per an. The people of this parish go to Divine Service at St. Barry's, Corke. Captn. Hayes, Hammond (Quaker), at Dundanion, live in this parish—all the rest are Papists. Coleman is Popish priest of this parish, and all St. Barry's parish; his mass-house is near the Red Abby; he has been here three or four years; one Dooly, a priest, assists him."

"Oct. 1700. I saw Barnehely church, which was built with stone, lime, and clay. The walls are above half down. It was about 28 foot long, and 17 broad. The bounds of the church-yard are hardly discernible. There is but one plowland in this parish. This parish is the estate of the Ld. Lanesborough; Mr. Folliot is tenant to it. Henry Gostry, Prot., and John Nevill, Pap., live in this parish. About two English acres of glebe near the sea. The glebe and tythes of the parish belong to Dean Sam Synge, as Impropiator; nothing is allow'd by him to any clergyman for serving the cure; I don't know his pretence for it. The tythes and glebe are set for £6 per an., by lease to Capt. Folliot. The people go to Carrickoline to church. 'Tis thought something ought to be allow'd for serving the cure, tho' it does not appear that they formerly paid tyth. The Coghans, who were the old proprietors, were very powerful, and 'tis likely they withheld the tythes with a high hand."

"Oct. 1700. I saw Ringskiddy and Ballibricken. Ringskiddy and Ballibrickan are one plowland and 15 acres. Ringskiddy makes the point betwixt Carrickoline bay and Raphine brook. There is a heap of rubbish in Mr. Abraham Dickson's orchard at Ballybrickan, which was a church heretofore. Captn. Hayes remembers the walls standing. 'Tis said by the inhabitants that Ringskiddy and Ballibrickan belongs to the parish of Kilgarvan, in the Great Island. Sed Qu."

"The people of both these places pay their tythes to Mr. Folliot, tenant to Dean Synge. Nothing is allowed to any clergyman. Island Creagh, Island Core, and Island Cahill, in the harbour of Corke (being almost unprofitable) belonging to the lands of Ringskiddy. Hallboling Island is the estate of the Crown. There is an old fort on it, built in Queen Eliz. time, now out of repair, formerly the Earl of Corke was governor of it. All these islands, together with Spike Island, belong (as 'tis said) to the Great Island. Ringskiddy and Ballibrickan are the estate of Dean Saml. Synge. Mr. Abraham Dickson lives at Ballybrickan. All these tythes of Ringskiddy and Ballibrickan were formerly enjoyed as mensal tythes belonging to the Bishoprick of Corke or Cloyne, by Bishop Synge, and were by him set to Captain Folliot, about thirty years ago, for about £4 per an. Captn. Hayes, Qu. Dean Davies."

"Ballibricken, 'tis supposed, is the same with Templebracknany in the Visitation Books."

"The people go to Carrickoline to church. Rinnmahon parish contains 8 plowlands to the east of Blackrock. The church stood near Captn. Hayes' house, and near the village of Ballintemple, so called from the church near it. Roch and Coppinger had most of these lands which they forfeited in the last rebellion to the king. Captn. He held the curacy of Ballinaboy, from 1744 to 1755.

He married Anna Maria Folliott (daughter of Captain John Folliott, by Joane, fifth daughter of Edward Synge, Bp. Cork, sister to Edward Synge, Abp. of Tuam), of St. Finbarry's, in 1700, by whom he had issue Rev. Charles (Rector of Innishannon, q. v.) (born 1717, Pens. By this return it would appear that quarrymen at Ballinadee worked for 8d. a-day; labourers at 6d.; a man and horse for 1s. per day. Twenty-five dozen of floor tiles cost £1 0s. 10d. The church is large, and the walls and roof are in pretty good repair. Seats in the east end, but not in the west."

"The west end was repaired when Kineigh and Fanlobbish were united to it. Contention about a seat gave occasion to the building Kineigh and Fanlobbish churches, and dividing the parishes."

I administered the holy sacrament. About 20 received. There were about 150 persons at church."

About Bearehaven there are not above five or six Protestant families, most of which are Dissenters. About forty English acres of glebe lye round the church of Ballymony; good land, and well improv'd. There is a small Rector's house. Mr. Symmes designs to enlarge it by building on the old foundations. There are two churchwardens sworn. A chalice, flagon, table-cloth for the Communion table, a Bible, two Common Prayer books. Here, and in the places hereabouts, tyth is paid for potatoes. And for mills, Agistment tythe, viz., a tenth part of the rent of the mill. The clergy don't think it worth the while to demand tythe of turf. Ballimony does not pay first fruits, but it pays 2s. per an., twentieth parts. Two Protestant women teach school. Ballymoney is worth to the Rector about £50 per an." [Downes' Tour.]

John Chetwode was a member of a family which can be traced to the LORDS CHETWODE, of CHETWODE, in Domesday Book. The barony of WAHULL was claimed by a Chetwode, temp. JAMES I. Vide Burke's Extinct and Dormant Peerages. The Rev. John Chetwode, or Chetwood, was son of Crewe Chetwode, esq. by Anna-Maria, dau. of Allan Holford, county Chester, and relict of Ralph Sueyd, esq. county Stafford.

He was a Scholar of T.C.D. in 1760, and graduated A.M. in 1799. He was ordained Deacon on the 1st, and Priest on 11th of June, 1762, for the stipendiary cure of Desertmore and Brinny. Cahirlag and R. Rathcony.

John Chetwode was of a highly literary turn of mind, yet never published any work.

He wrote many small pieces in prose and verse, and was an intimate friend of Malone. See Prior's "Life of Malone" for some of his letters. He composed the following lines, not for publication, but as an expression of his feelings upon the death of his young friend, Mrs. Sturgeon (dau. of J. P. Curran). They were intended afterwards to be inscribed as an epitaph on her tomb at Newmarket, but the intention was never carried into effect.

"So late adorned with every grace of mind,
 Here gentle Sarah lies, to peace consigned.
 Thou soul of harmony! Thy harp unstrung,
 Rests the sad emblem of thy tuneless tongue;
 Thy pensive grace, thy tasteful genius gone,
 Thy wit, thy playfulness for ever flown!
 Awhile, to charm the earth, thy powers were given,
 But now sublimed they own their native Heaven!"

John Chetwode married Elisabeth, dau. of William Hamilton, esq. and had a son, John, Captain in 33rd Regt. who married Eliza, dau. of G. Patton, Governor of St Helena, and died, leaving an only daughter, Eliza-Constance, wife of Peter Aiken, esq. of Clifton. [B. L. G.] He had also several daughters, of whom the eldest, Elisabeth-Hester, was wife to Robert Wilmot, and bore to him (besides two daughters, Constance-Julia and Anna-Maria), a son, Edward Wilmot, who became heir to the estates of his kinsman, Jonathan Chetwood, of Woodbrook, and took the name and arms of Chetwood by royal licence in 1839. This last-named EDWARD-WILMOT-CHETWODE is now of Woodbrook, Portarlinton, and has issue by his wife (the Lady JEAN-JANET ERSKINE, younger dau. of JOHN-THOMAS, EARL of MAR), who died in 1861, a son, KNIGHTLEY-JONATHAN, and three daughters, Alice-Agnes, Fanny-Elisabeth-Isabella, and Janet-Philadelphia.

Among the younger daughters of Rev. John Chetwode were Henrietta-Margaret, Lucy, wife of ——— Hawkshaw; and Mary, wife of William Thompson, Archdeacon of Cork, q. v.

The Rev. John Chetwode died on 13th April, 1814, and was buried, by his desire, in Rathcony church-yard.

His will, dated 8 Feb. 1642, and proved 23 June, 1652, is Neale was Vicar-General of Cork and Ross. His name disappears from the Cork Records in 1706/7. I find among the Cloyne marriage bonds one dated 1684, between Rev. Walter Neale and Elisabeth Raymond, of Whitechurch; and another between Walter Neale, gent. of Shandon, and Frances Charde, of Coolinie, in the year 1692. I think the Vicar-General was son of Constantine Neale, of county Wexford, and a relative of the Vigers family. A letter of the Rev. He married Alice Wilshire, or Wilson, in 1672. [Cloyne M.B.] And in his will (dated 17 March, 1719/20, and proved 3 Sept. 1720, at Cork) he mentions his wife, Alice, as executrix, and his son, Arthur, and Arthur's son, Peter. Peter Waterhouse entered T.C.D. as Pensioner on 27 Feb. 1720. In 1727 he was made Chancellor of Ross, Vicar Choral of Cork, and R. V. Kilmichael and Inchigeelah. In 1732 he became Precentor of Cork, and retained all these livings (except the Vicarage Choral, which he resigned in 1732), until his death in 1750.

He married, in August, 1730, Mabella Symes, and probably died without issue surviving, as his widow Mabella obtains the renewal of the lease from the Bishop in her own name. The earliest trace of the Cork Waterhouses is the following extract from the parish registry of Christ Church, Cork:—"Mary, the daughter of Thomas Waterhouse and Rachel, his wife, was born the 21 of March, and baptised the 25 of the same, 1659."

Peter Browne, Bishop of Cork, mentions Peter Waterhouse as his cousin, and appoints him a trustee in his will. On 10 Nov. 1729, the Bishop leased to Waterhouse part of the demesne lands of his See, in St. Finbarry's parish, called the half plowland of Farranmacteige, at a rent of £25, and a couple of good fat capons at Shrovetide, or 4s. in lieu thereof. This lease was renewed on 28 March, 1751, to Mabella Waterhouse, widow, for twenty-one years, at same rent. [D.R.]

He married (Feb. 1750), Anne, dau. of Rev. David Waterhouse, and by her (who died in Feb. 1756), had two daughters, Alice; and Lydia, wife of Caleb Falkiner, esq.; and one son, Jemmett, who died in 1765.

David Waterhouse, and a cousin of the Rev. Peter Waterhouse. His will was proved in Dublin in 1763, and in it several relatives are named, but no wife or children; so, I presume, he died unmarried.

1762. Dec. 2. SAMUEL WOODROOFFE, A.M., Precentor. [F.F.] A Scholar of T.C.D. in 1730.

1765. March 4. A commission issues to value the improvements made by Waterhouse on the glebe-house of Currikippane; on 12th March the return to the commission find £59 7s. 8d. to be the amount expended. [D.R.]

He made his will on 29th June, 1760, "being to leave ye kingdom for the recovery of my health." He mentions his wife, Dorothea (who survived him), and his daughter, Mrs. Catherine Mosse; and his nephew, John, son of James Woodrooffe; also his brother, John. The will was proved in Cork, twenty years afterwards, and administration was granted to his widow, Dorothea Woodrooffe.

He held along with this Precentorship, from 1695 to 1696, the Vicarage of Castlelyons; from 1696 to 1801 the P. Brigowne; and from 1801 to 1826 the Prebend of Ballyhay, in Cloyne. "1699. Drummaleague lyes about six miles to the south-west of Dunmanway. It belongs to Mr. Hignett. Very coarse country. Mr. Patrickson preaches there once a month, and Mr. Hungerford once a month.

"All the country, from Dunmanway to Bantry, is very coarse mountain, especially on the right hand.

"Caharagh lyes to the south of Drummaleague, and belongs to Mr. Patrickson. No church or divine service but at Drummaleague. We pass through part of Caharagh as we go from Drummaleague."

"Mr. Trix preaches at Skibbarea twice in a month, and at Baltimore and Shirkin.

"1699. Robert Howard, Verger of Ross, says that Caharagh parish is worth about £66 or £70 per annum. It is an intire rectory. That Drummaleague parish is worth £60 per annum. It is an intire prebend."

"Wednesday, May 29th, 1700. I went from Ballimony to Drummaleague. Mr. Patrickson preacht; there were no persons to be confirmed. Drummaleague Church, six miles distant from Dunmanway to the S.W. is in repair; only some of the slates are off. Divine service once a month by Mr. Hungerford for Mr. Hignett, and once a month by Mr. Patrickson for the parish of Caharagh. About 22 or 23 plowlands in this parish.

All this parish, with that part of the rectory in Fanlobish which belongs to the Prebend of Drommaleague, is worth to the Prebendary about £50 per annum. Colonel Sandford, Colonel Freake, Mr. Butler, Mr. Jo. Jarvys, are proprietors of land in this parish. A Bible and one Common Prayer-book. No registry. Mr. Hungerford promised to speak to Mr. Hignett to get one. Felix M'Carthy is Priest of this parish. He was here before the late troubles. Mr. Anthony Butler, and Captain Carthy, a Protestant, live in this parish. It would be very convenient that a minister should reside somewhere in Drommaleague parish, to serve that cure and the cure of Caharagh: divine service to be only at Drommaleague. No glebe in this parish; no houses near the church. In West Carbery the clergy pay the tenth part of the land tax; in East Carbery they pay the sixteenth; and in Barriroe, the fifteenth; and the fifteenth in Ibaun."

"A Protestant schoolmaster complains that Papists teach publick school in this parish. The holy sacrament administered four times in the year. No vessel for the communion. Caharagh Church, about two miles distant from Drommaleague Church to the S.W. lies close to the Island river, on the west side of the river; 35½ plowlands in this parish, of which 29 lie on the west side of the river, and 6½ lie on the east of the said river. There are but 12 Protestant families in this parish. 'Tis thought that there are 40 Papists for 1 Protestant in this parish. No glebe. Will. Guricheen, a very old man, is Priest of this parish. This parish lies convenient to be joined with either Skibbareen, or, perhaps, rather with Drommaleague. Colonel Beecher, Colonel Sandford, Edward Galway, who forfeited in the last rebellion, and the Bishop of Ossory, have the lands of this parish, and Sr. Emmanuel Moore and Colonel Owen, als Beecher. The church is ruinous; the north side is down. Caharagh parish is worth to the Incumbent about £70 or £80 per annum. Mr. Atkins, Mr. George Wood, and Will White, live in this parish. I gave to Mr. Patrickson about 12 Common Prayer and 30 small Prayer-books to be disposed of in Caharagh parish, &c., and Drommaleague, &c." [Downes' Tour.] 1727. January 17. The land betwixt the head of Dunmanus bay and the church is indifferent good. The church-yard is about an acre of land. There seem to be ruins of a house at the N. end of the church.

The little hill on which the church stands is glebe; 'tis good land. St. Faughnan is the Patron Saint of this parish. In the parish of Durrus, not far from Bantry, by the sea-side, are the ruins of an abbey, which belonged to the Franciscans. I don't hear that there were any other religious houses besides this in ye barony of Beere and Bantry."

Mr. Gideon Delane has half the tythes of all the rest of the parish; he has the same title that he has to the tythes of Kilmaccommoge. Mr. Holmes has half of the tythes of the whole parish; the Vicar's tythes of Kilcroghan, with the glebe and book-mony, are worth £16 per an. A church designed to be built at Dunmanway. Sermon once a fortnight at present at Fanlobbus. [V.B. 1699, D.D.]

"Thursday, August 10, 1699. I went from Ballimoney to Bantry. I lay at Captain Parker's house. Fanlobbish Church is about 3 miles beyond that of Ballimoney, to the west; the country thereabouts is coarse and rocky. The church is covered, but many slates are off; no pulpit nor seats; about half the church is ruinous; the church-yard is well inclos'd. About 14 English acres of glebe round the church. On the south of the church 6 plowlands belonging to the See of Corke; 5 of them on the north of the river Bandon, the sixth on the other side of the river, called Mareagh. The tenants to the Bishop are Sir Richard Cox and Mrs. Moreau. The 5 plowlands contain about 500 English acres; they are set by Sir Richard Cox to an Englishman for 50 li. per an. The sixth plowland is set, worth about £10 per an. These 6 plowlands are the best land thereabouts. Six plowlands belong to the Archbishop of Dublin; they pay a chiefry to the See of Corke; they do suit and service to the manor of Rosse; these are rocky lands.

"The Earl of Corke has two plowlands contiguous to the rest. He pays a chiefry to the See of Corke; but these 2 plowlands are reckoned in the Earl of Corke's manor of Inniskean. The parishioners are generally desirous to have the church at Dunmanway. If this church be not built the church of Fanlobish ought to be repaired forthwith."

"Dunmanway lyes near the centre of the parish; near 30 English families in the town. Divine service three Sundays in the month in a house in Dunmanway. There was subscribed £100 by Sir Richard Cox, and £100 by Mr. Patrickson, towards building a church or chappel of ease at Dunmanway, besides other subscriptions."

"At a mile distant to the west of Dunmanway stands a chappel of ease, ruinous, called Kilbarry Chapel."

"Munday, May 27, 1700. I viewed Fanlobish Church. Fanlobish Church is in the road from Ballimoney to Dunmanway. The church stands near the eastern end of the parish; Dunmanway stands nearer the centre. The church is covered, but wants slating; the walls are not good. The church-yard is large, and well fenced. Sir Richard Cox proposes to build a church at Dunmanway if it could be made the parish church; otherwise to make a chappel of ease there. The 6 plowlands of Nedineagh, belonging to the Bishop of Corke, lye to the south of Fanlobish Church; 5 of them on the N. of the Bandon river, and 1 on the south of the same river; they are good land, and contain in all about 500 acres; the best land thereabouts is set generally for less than 2s. an acre. The 5 plowlands of Nedineagh on the N. of the river, are held by Walter Plummer, terre tenant, who holds no other land; the sixth plowland is held by Denis Dullea, who holds other contiguous lands. The lands of this parish for the most part belong to the Lord Corke's brother Mr. H. Boyle, Sir R. Cox, the Bishop of Cork, the Archbishop of Dublin, Sir Matthew Dean, Mr. Fenwick, Mr. Woods, and Ald. Hore, of Corke ; Lieutenant Flower, Mr. Fare, and Mr. Plummer, and Mr. Dant, live in this parish, and Mr. Clerk and Mr. White."

"Divine service is performed every other Sunday at Dunmanway for the parish of Fanlobish, and on the same day Mr. Patrickson preaches at Kineigh. The other Sunday he preaches at Drommaleague. The Vicar of Fanlobish has half of the tythes. The Prebendary of Drommaleague has one rectory in this parish, being half the tythes of 14 plowlands ; the Vicars Choral of Corke have half the tythes of 40 plowlands. The extent of this and several other parishes, according to the civil account, differs from the extent of them according to the ecclesiastical account. This parish of Fanlobish is worth to the Vicar of it about £50 or £60 per an. There are two churchwardens. There is a registry kept here ; 12 acres of glebe adjoin to the east of the church-yard. No parsonage house. Charles M'Carthy is Priest of this parish ; and 'tis said he is not a sober man, nor chaste ; he has been Priest there many years." [Downes' Tour.]

1720. Nov. 27. The first sermon in the new church was preached by Rev. P. Townsend on this day. [Smith's Cork, vol. i. p. 378.]

Philip Townsend, sixth son of Colonel Richard Townsend, of Castletownsend, was born in 1664 at Kilbrittain Castle, near Timoleague, county Cork, and entered T.C.D. as a Pensioner on 20th June, 1684. He at first adopted the military profession, and was a captain in the army, but subsequently entered into Holy Orders, and in 1706 was admitted by Bishop Dive Downes to the Prebend of Lisclery, and by Bishop Crow, of Cloyne, to the R. V. Aghinagh, in Cloyne. These livings, together with the important Vicarage of the Holy Trinity, which he received in 1707, he held until his death. He was buried at the Holy Trinity on the 26th May, 1735.

He married, circa 1705, Helena, dau. of John Galwey, esq. and by her had issue two daughters, Elisabeth (born 1709, died sp.); and Mary, born in 1710 (whom her father calls in his will his only child), who was wife to John Becher, esq. of Aghadowne, near Skibbereen, son of Colonel Thomas Becher, Governor of Sherkin Island, county Cork. Considerable estates were settled on that marriage, which now belong to the present Sir Henry Wrixon Becher, bart. of Ballygiblin, and Creagh, and Castlehyde, county Cork.

Colonel Richard Townsend, the father of Philip Townsend, was descended from the ancient family of that name in the county of Norfolk; and, having settled himself in Ireland, became the founder and common ancestor of the Townsend family in the county of Cork.

In the reign of Charles I. he was a Colonel of Infantry. In the civil wars of that period he would seem to have joined the army which served from 1642 to 1645, under the Earl of Essex, in support of the Long Parliament; but refused to unite himself to that new model of the army which was formed at Cromwell's instance early in 1645. He acted, however, with detached forces, which belonged to Sir Thomas Fairfax's army, in the south-west of England, in the summer of the following year, 1646. He served at that time at the siege of Pendennis Castle, Cornwall, under the immediate command of the Honourable Colonel Richard Fortescue; and was one of the commissioners who were appointed on the part of the besiegers to treat about a capitulation, and who received the surrender of the castle, the 16th August. (See Sprigge, "Anglia Rediviva, History of Army under Sir T. Fairfax," pp. 302-304 (London, 1647; or pp. 306-313, Oxford University Press, 1854); Rushworth, "Historical Collections," part iv. vol. i. p. 295 (London, 1682-1701).)

When the House of Commons caused troops to be forwarded to Ireland in the following year, 1647, Cromwell so arranged matters that only those who were opposed to his projects in England were sent thither. Accordingly, upon the 15th June, the Parliament "ordered that Colonel Townsend's regiment be hereby required and commanded forthwith to be shipped and transported into Ireland, for the service of that kingdom. (See Journals of the House of Commons, 1647, p. 211.) On the 13th of the following November, Colonel Townsend commanded the main body of the English infantry at the great battle of Knockinoss, west of Mallow, in the county Cork, which was fought under the Earl of Inchiquin, against the Irish under Lord Taaffe. Subsequently, the English army being in great distress from the want of proper supplies, he united with Lord Inchiquin and others in a "Remonstrance," which was sent to the House of Commons early in the following year, 1648, and which is given by Sir Richard Cox, "History of Ireland," part ii. Appendix, No. 39, p. 140, London, 1689-90; and by Rushworth, "Historical Collections," part iv. vol. ii. p. 1041. And Inchiquin having shortly afterwards renounced his allegiance to the English Parliament, differences upon that subject of a serious character ensued between Colonel Townsend and that nobleman. (See Cox, Ibid. part ii. Charles I. pp. 198-202.)

In the following year, 1649, early in November, Cromwell having invaded Ireland, and taken the towns of Drogheda, Wexford, and Ross, the English garrisons in the county of Cork, in number about 2,500 men, not being able to "endure the thought of joining with the Irish against their own countrymen," united themselves to Cromwell, and proved to be of great service for the general subjugation of Ireland. In this important movement Colonel Townsend, acting with Lord Broghill, Colonel Courtney, Sir Percy Smith, and Colonels Gifford and Warder, took a leading part. (Cox, Ibid. part ii. Charles II. p. 12; "Life of Cromwell," p. 140, London, 1731). Cromwell writes, in particular, at that time, to Speaker Lenthall, that Colonel Townsend had come from Cork, in the "Nonsuch" frigate, to convey to him the submission of the English garrison and Protestant inhabitants of that city; and was with him at Ross (county Wexford), November 14, having, with others, "been very active for the return both of Cork and Youghal to their obedience." (See Despatch of that date in "Letters and Speeches of Cromwell," edited by Carlyle, vol. ii. pp. 94-96; London, 1846.)

After the Irish war, about 1652, Colonel Townsend, it would seem, for a time went back to England. Subsequently he returned to Ireland; and, both during the Protectorate, when so many Irish estates were for sale, and after the restoration of Charles II. in 1660, he made extensive purchases of land. He was seated for a time at Kilbrittain Castle, in the county Cork, and was Member for Baltimore in the Irish Parliament, which met at Chichester House, Dublin, 1661. At the instance of the Earl of Orrery, President of Munster, he was appointed Commander of Militia by the Duke of Ormonde, 1666. (See Orrery's "State Letters," pp. 156, 166, 170, folio, London, 1742); and Smith, "State of the County and City of Cork," vol. i. p. 58, Dublin, 1774). And his purchases were confirmed to him by three several patents, in 1666, 1668, 1679. He finally settled himself at Castle Townsend, in the barony of West Carbery. That site is mentioned in the patent of 1666 by its ancient name, Sleghteige. He became High Sheriff of the county Cork on 12th March, 1671.

His son, Horatio, Captain of the "Lynor," sloop of war, greatly distinguished himself at the siege of Cork by the Duke of Marlborough, which took place in the reign of William III. September, 1690. (See Story, "Impartial History of the Wars in Ireland," p. 141; London, 1693; Smith, Ibid. vol. ii. p. 207). Shortly afterwards, in the same year, November 23rd, an attack was made by a Jacobite party of 500 men, under Colonel O'Driscoll, upon Colonel Townsend's mansion-house at Castle Townsend, which Colonel Townsend, with a garrison of thirty-five men, repelled, with considerable loss to the attacking party. (Story, Ibid. p. 151; Sir Richard Cox, MS. Narrative in Smith, Ibid. p. 211; Miscellany of the Celtic Society, edited by O'Donovan, note, pp. 396-7, Dublin, 1849.)

Colonel Richard Townsend was married, and had issue eight sons and four daughters. Nearly two years after the assault upon his house he died, July, 1692, aged about 84 years, and was buried in Castle Haven churchyard. His will is in the Prerogative Court of the diocese of Ross.

His eldest son, John, had, in 1666, married Lady Catherine Barry, daughter of Richard, second Earl of Barrymore, by the Earl's first wife, Susan, daughter of Sir William Killigrew, knight. John Townsend died before his father, and left a daughter, Susannah. (See Scull, Cork, the Rev. Richard Townsend); and a son, Richard Fitz-John (see Colonel Townsend's will), who died after his grandfather's death, a minor, without issue.

Colonel Townsend's second son, Bryan, had, in 1666, been appointed Cornet of Militia Cavalry (see references above to Orrery's State Letters, and Smith's County Cork.) Bryan married, about 1680, Mary, daughter of Edward Synge, Bishop of Cork, Cloyne, and Ross, and sister of Edward Synge, Archbishop of Tuam.

In the reign of William III. in 1689, Bryan Townsend's name, together with the names of his brothers, Francis and Kingston, appeared in the list of proscribed persons appended to the great Act of Attainder, which was passed by the Irish Parliament under James II. (See the Act, with list, in Archbishop King's "State of the Protestants of Ireland," appendix, p. 348, Cork, 1768; and Macaulay, "History of England," chap. xii. William and Mary, vol. iii. pp. 216-220, London, 1855.) It is not unlikely that Bryan Townsend may have been present at the battle of the Boyne, for we find him at Belfast in 1690, May 21st, only three weeks before the landing of William III. in Ulster, and six weeks before the battle; and in that year he was made Colonel of Militia. (See Diary of Richard Davies, Dean of Cork, edited by Caulfield, Camden Society, p. 115; London, 1857.)

Ireland.

Five years later, in 1695, Colonel Bryan Townsend became Member for Clonakilty in the Irish Parliament. Upon the demise of his nephew, Richard Fitz-John, as above, he inherited the family estates. He had nine sons and five daughters, who have left numerous descendants. And, the male issue of Colonel Bryan Townsend's younger brothers having failed, the Townsends of the county Cork trace their descent from his father, Colonel Richard Townsend, in the male line only, through the male issue of Bryan. He died at Castle Townsend in 1726, aged about 78 years, and was buried at Castle Haven.

The Rev. Maurice Fitzgerald Townsend, of Castle Townsend, Vicar of Thornbury, Gloucestershire, is the present head of the family of Townsend in the county of Cork.

"No Protestants" in this parish in 1699. [V.B. D.D.]

"Oct. 15. 1700. I saw Inchigeelah Church: it is 4 miles to the west of Kilmichael, on the north side of the River Lee, near the river; 'tis about 70 foot long, the walls built with stone and lime are standing uncover'd, the west end hangs over. A good large church-yard, a ditch about it, only three small windows in the church. About 100 plantat. acres of very coarse glebe near the church, belonging to the Incumbent, 'tis set at second-hand for £3 per an. About 23½ plowlands in this parish, the lands westward of ye church are very coarse. These lands are part of the gentry division of the Earl of Clancarty's estate. There were lately 2 or 3 Protestants in this parish, but now there are none. Mr. Brown did preach before the troubles once in three weeks for some time in Mr. Lock's house. Dennis Leary is Popish Priest of this parish, and Kilnemartery, in Cloyne diocese."

"At Gougan Barry, in this parish, lives Dennis Mahony, formerly Priest of this parish, now a hermit, who has built 7 chappels there. He was order'd at Rome to undergo the penance of a hermit, having been guilty of fornication. 'Tis said that St. Finbarry from a cell in this place was remov'd to the bishoprick of Corke. In this parish, 2 miles east of the church, I saw, on the north side of the river Lee, the walls of a church or chappel, call'd Killbarry, the walls built with stone and clay are standing uncover'd. The bounds of the church-yard are discernible; 'tis said to have been a chappel of ease, built by the Learys. This parish was formerly worth £100 per an. now 'tis worth about 40 per an. to the Incumbent. More than half of this parish lies on the north side of the river Lee. There are the ruins of a chappel, call'd Agharns, on the north side of the river, in the north and west corner of this parish, belonging to this parish; but Dean Davies did once pretend it belonged to the diocese of Cloyne, it being mentioned in the Visitation Books of Cloyne. I did not see this chappel. This parish is also called Iveleary, i.e. the habitation of the family of the Learys. The Earl of Corke, as Impropiator, has half the tithes of this parish, the Vicar has the other half; the Vicar pays a crown rent of 18s. per an. for this parish. One rectory belonged to the Abbey of Mourne. This parish extends towards the east from the church 3 miles, and towards the west from the church 9 miles." [Downes' Tour.]

He does not appear elsewhere in Cork Records. I find among the Cloyne marriage bonds, one for the marriage of Patrick Elmsley, of Crossduff, with Rebecca Sewell, of Kilnemartery, dated in 1757. This might have been a son of Rev. P. Elmsley.

1755. March 18. JOHN BAILY, A.B., R. V. Inchigeelah. [F.F.] By death of Patrick Elmsley. [D.R.]

1755. August 19. A commission issues (to view the house and offices erected on glebe by late Pat. Elmsley), at request of Francis Elmsley and Thomas Wallis, the executors of Rev. Pat. Elmsley. The return is dated Sept. 22, 1755, and finds £248 18s. 1½d. to have been the value of the house, &c. when finished; and £218 3s. 9d. to be the present value; £30 14s. 4d. being sufficient to put them in as good repair as they were when first completed. According to the detailed account the stone work of the house cost 3s. 8d. per perch; roofing, 30s. per square; slating and rendering, 14s. per square; flooring, 30s. per square; flagging, 2s. 8d. per yard. 1663. Sept. 22. THOMAS HOLMES, V. Kilmacomoge, V. Durrus, and Kilcroghane, vacant by death of Thomas Barham. [V.B. D.R. 1669.]

"1699. Kilmacomogue joins to Caharagh, about two miles before we come to Bantry, and lyes westward of Caharagh; the church stood three miles to the north-east of Bantry; 'tis ruinous; there is a cabin built on purpose for a chapel in Bantry; 75 plowlands and 8 gneeves in the parish of Kilmacomoge; about 150 persons usually at church in Bantry; three Sundays in four Mr. Holmes preaches in Bantry; the fourth Sunday he preaches in Captain Evanson's house, at Four-mile-water, in the parish of Durrows. Kilmacomoge being 3 plowlands, belongs to the See of Corke, set for £12; well set; and Innishbeglary, an island, set for £14, is worth about £35 per an. The 3 plowlands of Kilmacomoge are better land than the land about it, but 'tis small measure. The rectory of Kilmacomoge belongs to St. Catherine's Abby, of Waterford."

"Kilchroghan lyes to the south-west of Bantry, about five miles, at the nearest, and about twelve miles at the furthest part distant from Bantry ; no church, nor Protestants. Kilcroghan, 3 plowlands, belonging to the see of Corke, worth at least £20 per an., is set to Sir Richard Hull for £5 per an.; the land is better than the other land in that parish; indifferent measure. The rectory of Kilcroghan belongs to St. Catherine's, Waterford, except the rectory of the 3 plowlands of Kilcroghan, which belongs to the Earl of Cork."

"Anno. 1699. Most part of the parish of Kilcroghan is the joynture of Mrs. Peyton; the estate belongs to the Hulls for the most part. The greatest part of the barony of Bere and Bantry is the estate of the Earl of Anglesey; Mr. Davys has an estate about Bantry and Whidy Island worth about £500 per an., out of which he pays a chiefry to the Earl of Anglesey of £100 per an., and quit rent £150 per an. The parish of Durrows lyes close to the town of Bantry, to the south, and Kilcroghan to the south of Durrows, they both lye betwixt Bantry bay and Dunmanus bay. There was a chappel of ease in the parish of Durrows, near Bantry, before the year 1641. Bantry bay runs about twenty miles up into the land. Bantry town stands within three miles of the highest part of the Bay. Mointer-Vary, in the parish of Kilcroghan, is the lowest point on the east side of the mouth of the Bay, and Great Island opposite to it on the west. The Bay runs from the sea to the north-east. Barracks for one company of foot are building at Bantry. Durrows and Kilcroghan are united pro hac vice to Kilmacomoge. Some Protestants in Durrows; three Sundays in four Mr. Holmes preaches at Bantry, the fourth Sunday he preaches at Four-mile-water for the parish of Kilcroghan and the adjacent parts of Durrows. No divine service in any place westward of Bantry within less than twelve miles, in Kerry, at Glanerought. The ruins of an abbey lie within quarter of a mile of Bantry. Two little schools kept in Bantry; 31 plowlands in the parish of Durrows. The Earl of Corke has the moiety of the tythes of 12 plowlands; the Vicar has the remainder of all the tythes; the Vicar's share is worth about £30 per annum; 30 small plowlands in Kilcroghan parish; the rectory belongs to the Abbey of St. Catherine's, Waterford, the estate of Sir Ellis Layton; the lease of this, from the King, expired in the Earl of Essex's time, and was then renewed by Sir Ellis Layton; only the rectory of the three plowlands of Kilcroghan belongs to the Earl of Corke."

"The vicarage is worth about £16 per annum; Bantry bay runs from the sea to the north-east above 20 miles into the land; it branches itself into little creeks: on one of them stands Bantry or Oldtown; on another, Newtown; on another, Ballilicky; on another, the Snave. The bay is generally about a league broad. About a mile below Bantry are four or five little islands, as Horse Island, Hog Island, Cony Island, &c. Whidy Island is about 2 miles from Bantry, very good land ; about 1,000 English acres are set for about £80 per an. by Mr. Davys to Mr. Bemish ; frost seldom continues, nor snow on this island ; the biggest ships may come on the west of Whidy with safety. Berehaven side of the bay is coarse rocky mountain, hardly passable ; there the cane apples, or Arbutus, grow on the sides of the most steep and rocky mountains. A river runs down a steep side of the hill ; springs generally on the tops of the hills, and bogs on the tops of the rocky mountains ; Pilechers were taken generally in this bay heretofore ; few of late. Beds of escalops about the Horse Island, they are large.

"In the parish of Kilmacomoge the Irish observe Macomoge's day as a festivall, and generally each parish observes a patron day ; and in the whole diocess of Corke generally the Irish observe St. Finbarry's day as a festivall. In the whole diocess of Rosse the Irish observe St. Faughnan's day as a festivall. The parish of Kilmacomoge is worth about £30 per an. to Mr. Holmes.

"The Bay of Bantry is a good harbour ; ships of great burden, of a thousand tuns, may come within Whidy Island ; no shallows nor hidden rocks in the bay. The French men-of-war, being above 20, came into the bay in 1689. The ships laden with ammunition, &c., came up to the bay. The English and French men-of-war engag'd betwixt Great Island and Mointervary." [Downes' Tour.]

1814. July 9. Lord Bantry leases for ever to the Vicar about 20 plantation acres of the lands of Capanology for a glebe, at the annual rent of £147 7s. 9d.; and on 3rd August, 1814, the Bishop receives a memorial and estimate for a house on said glebe, at cost of £1,390 10s. 9d. for house, and £639 10s. 6d. for offices. On 27th Sept., 1816, the Bishop certifies the yearly value to be £1,200 12s. 6d., and Smith's expenditure to be £2,902; from which latter sum the loan of £1,500 from First Fruits being deducted, the charge on benefice is fixed at £901 5s. [D.R.]

1837. Kilmocamogue: a vicarage, with cure; 14 miles long by 12 broad, containing 56,910A.; gross population, 14,483; one Curate employed, at a stipend of £75 per annum; tithe composition, £625; 10 acres of glebe let for £10; 32½ acres of glebe in Incumbent's occupation, rented at four guineas per acre, £135 9s., subject to visitation fees, 7s. 8d.; diocesan schoolmaster, 18s. Kilmocamogue glebe-house built under the new Acts, in 1816, at a cost of £2,307 13s. 10½d. Brit., whereof £1,384 12s. 3¾d. was granted in way of loan, and £92 6s. 1¾d. in that of gift by the late Board of First Fruits, and the residue of £830 15s. 4¾d. was supplied out of the private funds of the builder, to whom the present Incumbent is next in succession; and having paid his predecessor's representatives the entire of the sum last named, he will be entitled to receive £623 1s. 6½d. from his successor on account thereof. Of the loan aforesaid there remained £817 9s. 4d. chargeable on the benefice in 1832, repayable by annual instalments of £45 9s. 2d. Incumbent is constantly resident in the glebe-house. Exclusive of the monies aforesaid, the builder is reported to have expended £369 4s. 7½*d.* on the glebe-house, without having any charge on his successor for the repayment of any portion thereof. One church, capable of accommodating 500 persons, built in 1818, at the cost of £1,938 9s. 2¾*d.* Brit., whereof £1,384 12s. 3¾*d.* was granted in way of loan by the late Board of First Fruits, and the residue of £553 16s. 11*d.* was raised by private subscriptions. Of the loan aforesaid there remained £1,023 10s. 2*d.* chargeable on the parish in 1832, repayable by annual instalments of £48 14s. 8*d.* Divine service is celebrated in the church twice on all Sundays, and on the principal festivals, as also in a private house, four miles from the church, on Sunday mornings, and at the glebe-house on Sunday evenings. Service is also performed in the church on all Thursdays, and a lecture is delivered in a part of the parish remote from the church on every Wednesday evening. The sacrament is administered monthly, and on Christmas Day. The rectorial tithes of this parish, compounded for £561 15s., are inappropriate, and belong to the Earl of Donoughmore. [Parl. Rep.]

1840. May 12. HON. CHARLES BRODRICK BERNARD, A.M., V. Kilmocamoge. [D.R.] In 1842 he became P. Kilbrogan, q. v.

1842. July 2. JOHN MURPHY, A.B., V. Kilmocamoge. [D.R.] In 1861 he became Treasurer of Cork, q. v.

1860. The outside wall of the church requires repairs, and is very unsightly. The church was built about 1818. It is oblong, with tower, in which is a porch, and with vestry, but without transepts or spire. The interior was completely altered in 1859, and was fitted with benches. There is a gallery at the west end. A font of Bath stone (octangular, 3 feet 2 inches high, and 2 feet 2 inches at its greatest breadth) was given by the EARL of BANTRY, who erected also at the east end a stained-glass memorial window, in memory of the late COUNTESS of BANTRY, his deceased wife, to whom is inscribed a mural monument on the north wall of the church. The west end window was also fitted with stained glass by the present LORD BANTRY. There is a glebe-house and 32½ acres of glebe in Vicar's use. There are two other glebes, one of 8 the other of 4 acres, in remote parts of the parish, which are let to tenants. Divine service twice on all Sundays, &c. Sacrament monthly, and at festivals; average of communicants, 45; 66 children are on the rolls of the schools, which are aided by the Church Education Society.

The Curate is Rev. A. B. Wilson. The Protestant population is 396. The rentcharge is £468 15s. There are 43 acres of land, worth £75 per an., but as the enormous rent of £135 9s. has to be paid to Lord Bantry for 32½ acres of the glebe, the Vicar suffers an annual loss of £60 9s. by their occupation.

The Vicar also pays £15 yearly to the Curate of Glengariffe, q. v. His income, after these outgoings, may be set down as £393, with residence.

1861. January 17. RICHARD CHARLES FAULKNER, A.B., V. Kilmocamoge. [D.R.]

Mr. Faulkner was ordained in 1847. From 1851 to 1861 he was licensed Curate of Middleton. He was educated at Portora Royal School, Enniskillen.

- "1699. Skull parish, about 50 plowlands, the rectory being half the tythes ; the Vicar has the other half, and the glebe and bookmony. The vicaridge is worth about £40 per an. ; the rectory is worth about £32 per an. In this parish, and in other parishes that lie on the sea, the Rector and Vicar agree as well as they can with the fishermen for the tythe of fish, sometimes 40s. for a sain, and sometimes 5s. ; sometimes 10s. per boat for hook fishing. Half the tyth is paid by those that come out of other parishes ; the other half is paid in the parish where the fishermen dwell."

"1699. Kilmoe parish, 25 plowlands. The rectory being half the tythes, is worth about £16 per an.; the vicaridge being the other half of the tythes, and the glebe and bookmony, is worth about £20 per an."

"On Munday, the 3rd of June, 1700, I left Skibbareen, and went to Skull that night. I lodg't at Mr. Bruce's house, at Derrinecha, near Skull. Skull parish extends six miles eastward from the church, and to the west about three miles. The church walls are standing, and good, made of stone and lime, 84 foot long and 24 broad. It stands near the center of the parish. June 4th, 1700. An act of vestry was made for raising 12s. off each plowland for the repairs of the parish church. In this parish are the ruins of a chappel, near Dunmanus Castle, called Killanget. 84 plowlands are in this parish. 3 Sundays in 4 divine service at Skull in a house; the 4th Sunday at a house in Kilmoe parish. The 12 plowlands of Skull belong to the Bishop of Corke; they lie round the church. These lands extend a mile and a-half from the church, towards the north, and take in part of Mount Gabriel. These 12 plowlands include Castle Island, the Middle and West Calves, and Carthy's Island, all which are in the parish of Skull. These 12 plowlands are as good as any thereabouts, but they are small measure.

"The bay that goes up to Ballidehob is called Loughtrasnah. John Prouce, a good old man, is the parish clerk of this parish and Kilmoe. There are about 4 Protestant families in this parish, and about 400 Papist families. Daniel Carthy is Popish Priest of the eastern part of this parish; he has been here ever since before the late troubles. No glebe in this parish. No registry-book, nor Bible, nor Common Prayer-book. A silver chalice and plate, the gift of Mr. Hull, the Rector, are in the hands of Mr. Randolph Warner. The Bishop of Corke, Colonel Beecher, Earl of Castlehaven, Mr. Hull and the Earl of Corke have the lands of this parish; and Mr. Sullivan, a Protestant. Mr. Hull, Mr. Bennett, Dan O'Hea, Armiger How, and Anthony Allen, live in this parish. Mount Gabriel, in the parish of Skull, is a haunt of wolves; there are no trees nor shelter, except rocks and bogs. It is the highest hill in those parts, only Hungry Hill and other hills in Beerhaven are higher. From the top of Mount Gabriel we saw Dunmanus bay, the lands of the town of Kilkroghan, beyond Dunmanus bay, and also Bantry bay, with the hills of Beerhaven. We saw also from thence Ballineskellix Islands, in Kerry. Mr. Bennet saies he has heard that the Bishop of Corke has some estate thereabouts. On the Skellix, the gannet, as big as a goose, breeds. There is a small lough on the top of Mount Gabriel. From the rocks of Derrinetragh we saw Castle Island, belonging to the Bishop of Corke. It lies to the S. a mile from shore; the tenant pays to Mr. Hull for it £8 per an. There is an old Irish castle on it. Beyond Castle Island lies Carthy's Island, and the Three Calves, good land, belonging to the Bishop of Corke. From the same rocks we saw Horse Island, belonging to the Countess of Castlehaven; the West Inniskeanes, good land, belonging to the Bishop of Corke; the East Inniskeanes and Hare Island, forfeited lately by Coppinger, and granted to Dr. Lesley; Cape Clear and Shirkin, belonging to Colonel Beecher; Long Island, belonging to the Earl of Corke; and Goat Island, belonging to Mr. Hull. There is a high steep rock in the sea, called the Fastnet, which, with Cape Clear's western point and Crookhaven, make an equilateral triangle, each side three leagues. The shore on these parts is all rocky. The O'Mahons had above 100 plowlands formerly in this country."

"Tuesday, June 3, 1700. After prayers in the church of Skull, I confirmed about 40 persons that came out of the parishes of Skull and Kilmoe. I dispos'd of about 14 Common Prayer-books, and 35 small Prayer-books, for Skull and Kilmoe. The Middle and West Calves are in the parish of Skull, and the East Calf and the two Skames are in the parish of Aghadown. Some people live upon the East and Middle Calf, but none on the West Calf. The church of Skull is uncovered; the walls are standing, well built, with lime and stone. It is about 84 foot long and 24 foot broad."

"At a vestry held in Skull Church on June 4, 1700, Thomas Bennett and John Sullivan were chosen churchwardens of Skull, they were then and there presented to the Bishop of Corke, and sworn before him. At the same vestry, 12s. on each plowland in the parish of Skull was assest for the repairs of the Church of Skull. It was agreed that only 30 foot in length should be repaired. I promised £5 towards the repairs of Skull, and paid it. There are 84 plowlands in this parish. This parish is about 9 miles in length and 6 miles in breadth. 3 Sundays in 4 there is divine service at Mr. Bennett's house in Skull, and the fourth Sunday Mr. Vyse preaches at Mr. Coghlan's house, in the parish of Kilmoe. John Prouce, a good old man, is Clerk of this parish and Kilmoe. The parish of Skull extends 6 miles eastward from the church, it reaches to the west about 3 miles and a half from the church. In this parish are the ruins of a chappel near Dunmanus Castle, called Kilkanget. The bay that goes up to Ballidehab is called Loughtrasnagh; several islands, viz., Castle Island, &c., lie in this bay. Daniel Leahy, a convert, teaches school in this parish at Gortineroagh. This parish is worth to the Vicar about £50 per an. No glebe-house in this parish; no collections, but at the sacrament. They pay tythes of fish; the tenth fish. As to those that are remote, the Minister generally agrees with them for so much a boat. There is a Bible, but no Common Prayer-books. Sacrament three times in the year."

"On Thursday, the 6th of June, I went to Kilmoe and Crookhaven, and returned to Skull the same night.

"Kilmoe: the church is ruinous, the walls that are standing are bad, built with stone and clay. The church stands about a mile from Crookhaven, to the westward near the head of Barlycove bay. 8a. of glebe on the north of the church; good land, set for £20 per an. There are the ruins of a vicaridge house joining to ye church-yard. Crookhaven town lies on the south side of the haven; there were formerly (viz. before 1641) 200 houses there. It yielded £300 per an., rent. There are the ruins of a small fort on the east end of the town, built by the King. There are also the walls of an old castle about the middle of the town, which they say was formerly a prison. There are the ruins of a chapple at the west end of the town. One end of the chapple is dedicated to St. Mullagh, 'tis said some glebe belonged to this chapple. Missen Head lies to the south-west of Crookhaven town; the Three Castle's Head lies to the north-west of Missen Head; off of Crookhaven Head lies the rock, call'd the Aldern. Barlycove is an open bay to the south-west of Crookhaven. The church of Kilmoe is dedicated to St. Briana, als Brandon, whose festival is observed in this parish. About 9 Protestant families in this parish. There are about 200 papist families in this parish. The Earl of Corke, Bishop of Corke, Colonel Beecher, Mr. Hull, Mr. Arthur Hide, and Thadeus Coghlan, have the lands of this parish. Mr. Pierce Arnot, Thadeus Coghlan, and Mr. Mahon, a late convert, and Thomas Dyer, the tide-waiter, live in this parish. Tieve Coghlan is Popish Priest of the parish of Kilmoe, and of the western part of the parish of Skull, he has been here for about eight years. On the hill near Castlemehaga, which lies on the north side of Crookhaven bay, grows the Arbutus; I saw some of them, they grow out of the clefts of the rocks on the side of the rock looking to the south; the mould was black, wash'd down from the hill into the clefts; I suppose 'tis good rich earth. A young Irishman, a Papist, teaches school in this parish of Kilmoe, about the middle of it. This parish is very hilly and rocky. This parish is worth about £25 per an. to the Vicar. This parish has 42 plowlands in it, 'tis about 6 miles in length from east to west, and about 3 miles in breadth.

"The Rectories of Skull and Kilmoe are in the gift of the Crown, worth £60 per an.; the vicaridges in the Bishop of Corke's gift, are worth £70 per an. These two rectories, as 'tis said, belong'd formerly to the College of Youghal, the Lord Strafford wrested them out of the hands of the Earl of Corke.

"Kilmoe parish. No books, nor any Registry of Kilmoe.

About 7 or 8A. of glebe on the north of the church, near it, 'tis good land. There are about 9 Protestant families in this parish, and about 200 Papist families; the Bishop of Corke's land about the church is very good, 'tis set to the terre-tenant for about 2s. per acre. Carrenmore, also Carrenoglaven, belonging to the Bishop of Corke, lies to the east of Missen Head. The ruins of a chapple are at Crookhaven, 'tis said there is some glebe belonging to it, but 'tis concealed."

"Teige Coghlan is Papist Priest of Kilmoe, and the western part of the parish of Skull, he has been so for eight years. The Earl of Corke, Colonel Beecher, the Bishop of Cork, Mr. Hull, Mr. Hide, and Thadeus Coghlan, a Protestant, have the lands of this parish. Mr. Pierce Arnot, Thadeus Coghlan, and Mr. Mahon, a late convert, and Thomas Dyer, the waiter, live in this parish. Before the 1641 wars there were 200 houses in Crookhaven. Crookhaven harbour is a very good one. The parish church of Kilmoe stands at the head of Barlycove; the walls standing are bad, built of stone and clay; set for 20s. per an."

"The ruins of a vicaridge house within the north of the church joining to the church-yard; part of the chappel of Crookhaven is said to be older than the rest, and that it was dedicated to St. Mullagab. The Church of Kilmoe was dedicated to St. Brianah, als Brandon, whose festival is kept in the parish of Kilmoe on the 16th of May. Barlycove is an open bay to the south-west of Crookhaven; Missen Head is the western point of this bay; Three Castles Head lies to the north-west of Missen Head, in Kilmoe parish; in all the O'Sullivan's country they observe as a holiday St. Rooane's Day." There is also in Kilmoë parish a church, called Templenaboit, or the church of the poor, which was built in 1847 by the inhabitants of the district during the famine. The money sent to Mr. Fisher for relief of the destitute, instead of being distributed in alms gratuitously, was employed in giving labour, and procuring materials to erect this church. No horses were employed at it, and all the work was done by hand. Besides the erection of a place of worship in a poor locality, occupied by Protestants, and distant about four Irish miles from Scull or Kilmoë churches, Mr. Fisher found also this benefit from his proceedings, namely, that while in the neighbouring districts the rates for relief of the poor were enormously high, in this district they were comparatively little. Mr. E. H. Hopley is the Curate of Templenaboit Church, in which there is divine service twice on all Sundays, besides an early service at 8 A.M. on Sundays in a licensed place of worship at Lissacha, a place in the same district. The sacrament is administered monthly, at Templenaboit, and at festivals; the average of communicants is 37. 57 children are on the rolls of a Church Education school.

The protestant population of this portion of Kilmoe parish is 509.

Of Dr. Nicholas Brady, whose name will be remembered as long as the present version of the Psalms remains in our Books of Common Prayer, some fuller account than usual will be acceptable. He was descended from the noble and once powerful family of O'GRADY, which boasts an equal antiquity and a common lineage with that of O'BRIEN from the ancient kings of Ireland. [Vide Keating, vol. ii. p. 401, ed. 1809, and O'Brien's Irish and English Dictionary, p. 514. Vide also the families of O'GRADY and the Lords INCHQUIN and GUILLAMORE, in Burke's L. G. and Peerage.] The first of the O'Grady family who took the name of Brady seems to have been SIR DENIS O'GRADY, als BRADY, knight and chief of his name, or "nacion," to whom King HENRY VIII. granted by letters patent, dated 5th January, 1543, the following lands (which had previously belonged to the ancestors of Sir Denis), namely, the manors, lordships, towns, &c., of Thoymcreny (Tomgrany), Finnagh, Kyllachulybeg, Killachulymore, Seamboyeronayn, Killokenedy, Clony, Killchonnrian, Enockeim, Parchayne, and the moiety of Kiltulla. Sir Denis O'Grady, als Brady, died (circa 1569), in Limerick, in a house, called the "Archdeakan's Courte," belonging to himself, having had issue four sons, Edmond (d. Sp. 27th December, 1576), Donald (d. Sp.), John, and Hugh.

The third son, John O'Grady, als Brady, was heir to his brothers Edmond and Donald, and surrendered to Queen Elizabeth all his estates on 26th of July, 1582. Her Majesty re-granted to John O'Grady and to his brother, Hugh, with limitation to the heirs, not of John, but of Hugh Brady, the same estates which are described as the manors, lordships, &c., of Tomgraney, Ballyduff, Ballynock, Aghrim, Ithnatty, Ballymollowin, Ballymarrane, Ashrymdowgin, Fassabeg, Fassaghmore, Tyronethy, Toare, Rathyny, Tullaghary, Ballycoin, Twilaghgory, Chrony, Finaghe, Killuckwillibeg, Killuckwillimore, Knokeyprighane, Killokenedy, Seamboetheronane, O'Grady's Island, alias Illan-I'Gradye, Kilsulla, Skarrieff, in the county of Clare, aliter Thomond; also "unum domum lapideum infra civitatem Limerici vulgariter vocatum le Archdeaken's Courte," in the parish of St. Michael's, Limerick. John O'Grady, by his wife, Katherine Bourke, had issue a son, Donogh O'Grady, of Fassaghmore, ancestor, according to Sir William Betham, of several of the present families of O'Grady, in the county Limerick, and elsewhere.

Hugh O'Grady, alias Brady, fourth son of Sir Denis, was born at Dunboyne, county Meath, and obtained by conveyance from his brother, John, the lands of Tomgrany and Scariff, &c., mentioned in above patents. He was educated in England, and was Rector of St. Mary, Aldermary, London (vide Shirley's Letters in Illustration of the Church in Ireland, page 188; London, Rivington, 1851); and from 1563 to 1584 was Bishop of Meath. He married, firstly, a widow (whose dau. married Geoffrey Pinchbeck (or Pichebek, Chief Registrar of the High Commission for Ecclesiastical Causes in Ireland, and a kinsman of SIR WILLIAM CECIL, the first LORD BURGHLEY), by whom he had no issue; and secondly, Alice (dau. of Right Hon. SIR ROBERT WESTON, Lord Chancellor of Ireland), by whom he left issue at his death, on 13th Feb. 1584/5, three sons, Lucas, Nicholas, and Gerald, besides a dau. Elisabeth. His relict, Alice, in 1585, married Sir Jeffery Fenton, Secretary of State in Ireland, and bore to him SIR WILLIAM FENTON and Alice, wife of the first EARL of CORK, who erected to her memory the huge monument in St. Patrick's Cathedral. Of the Bishop's children, Elisabeth died unmarried, and was buried in St. Patrick's; Gerald, the youngest son, was a "student of Trinitie Colledge," and died Sp. having previously married Joane (dau. of William Conway, of Dublin, who was buried at St. Patrick's, in 1633), who married, after Gerald's death, Mathew Trott, esq., of London. Lucas or Luke, the Bishop's eldest son, as one of the Chieftains of the County of Clare, signed the treaty between Queen Elizabeth and the Lords of that county on 17th August, 1585; and was, I think, in 1591, though a layman, R. Bruhenny, Cloyne, q. v. He married Agnes Evans, by whom he had a son, Luke, born at Rosscarbery, in 1623, and a dau. Alice, wife of Laurance Clayton, of Mallow, brother to SIR RANDOLL CLAYTON. The last-named Luke was heir to the property of Tomgrany and Raheens, county Clare, which remained in that branch of the Brady family until sold in the Incumbered Estates Court to the present proprietor, Mr. Moreland.

The Bishop's second son, Nicholas, was appointed Escheator of Connaught, in 1606, no doubt through the interest of the first EARL of CORK, who had married, in 1603, his half-sister, Alice Fenton. That Earl appears, from papers now in the possession of Lord Inchiquin, to have been joint proprietor with the Bradys of their Clare estates, and in the Down Survey of 1641, was owner of ten denominations of land in that county, including Scariff and Fassaghmore, while Mr. Brady was owner of eleven, among which were Tomgrany and Raheens. Nicholas Brady was probably brought by the same nobleman to Bandon

(which was re-built or re-edified by the Earl, in 1641), where he acquired a property in the town and neighbourhood, which remained in the family until recent times. He afterwards removed to England, and died, leaving a son, Major Nicholas Brady, of Richmond, in Surrey, and of Bandon, county Cork, who married Martha, the dau. and heiress of Luke Gernon, esq. of Cork ("a Judge of singular meekness and probity," who was Second Justice of the Presidency Court of Munster, 1618 to 1660), by whom he had issue, besides an elder son, whose descendants have been long settled in England, Nicholas Brady, the P. Kilnaglory.

The foregoing statement of the descent of Dr. Brady from Sir Denis O'Grady, chief of his name, has been taken from the family pedigree, certified by Sir Wm. Betham, and verified by reference to the will of Bishop Hugh Brady, and by documents in the Ulster Office, &c. The following account is taken from the second edition of Vol. II. of the "Biographia Britannica," enlarged by Dr. Andrew Kippis, fol., London, 1780, with some slight alterations and additions from the family papers, now in the possession of Antonio Brady, esq., of Stratford, near London:—

Nicholas Brady, born at Bandon, co. Cork, on 28th of October, 1659, was educated for a time by Dr. Tindall, of Cork; and when twelve years old, was removed to Westminster School, then under the care of the celebrated Dr. Busby. Brady was much thought of by his master, and was elected King's Scholar at Westminster; and from thence was sent to Oxford as a Student of Christchurch. After continuing there four years he went to Dublin, where his father then resided, and commenced B.A., and in the following year, 1688, graduated A.M. His degree of D.D. was afterwards presented to him on account of his uncommon merit, and brought over to him to England by Dr. Pratt, then Travelling Fellow, and subsequently Provost of that University.

He was ordained Priest, at Cork, on 28th September, 1687, by Bishop Whetenhall, to whom he was Chaplain. In 1688 he was appointed P. Kilnaglory, R. Kilmeen, V. Drinagh, and V. Castroventia, in the diocese of Ross, all which he resigned in 1692. He was, in 1690, Minister of St. Catherine-Cree, and Lecturer of St. Michael's, Wood-street, London. He was afterwards Minister of Richmond, in Surrey, to which post he was invited by the gentlemen of that place in consequence of the high esteem they had conceived for him during a retreat which he had made thither while he was translating the Psalms. The vicarage of the Holy Trinity of Stratford-upon-Avon was given to him by the great EARL OF DORSET, and the rectory of Clapham, by DAME REBECCA (relict of SIR RICHARD) ATKINS, Baronet, on 21st February, 1705/6. He died Rector of Clapham, and Minister of Richmond, on 22nd of May, 1726, and was buried at Richmond on the 26th of May. Dr. Thomas Stackhouse, author of the "History of the Bible," preached his funeral sermon.

Dr. Brady was a zealous promoter of the late happy Revolution, and an eminent sufferer for it. In 1690, when the troubles broke out in Ireland, by his interest with King James' general, MacCarty, he thrice prevented the burning of Bandon town, after three several orders given by that Prince to destroy it. The same year, having been deputed by the people of Bandon, he went over to England to petition the Parliament for a redress of some grievances they had suffered while King James was in Ireland.

Dr. Brady was Chaplain to the Princess of Wales, to King William and Queen Mary, and to Queen Anne; also, to the Duke of Ormond's troop of Horse Guards.

Dr. Brady had the character of being a person of most obliging, sweet, affable temper, a polite gentleman, an excellent preacher, and a good poet. His qualifications would undoubtedly have raised him, it was said, to some of the greatest dignities in the church, if the singular humanity and benevolence of his disposition would have suffered him to have run in with the violence of either prevailing party.

He published, in conjunction with Mr. Tate, Poet Laureate, the well-known version of the Psalms, which first appeared in 1698. Of the numerous and various editions of this work a collection has been made, at great expense, by Mr. James Lenox, of New York. The opinions of learned men as to the merits of the versification, and also as to the share Dr. Brady had in the composition of the several pieces, are nearly as various as the different editions.

He published also :—

1. The Rape, or the Innocent Impostors; a tragedy. [Anonymous.] 4to. London, 1692.
2. A Sermon, preached at Whitehall, London, before the King and Queen, on October 23, 1692. 4to. London, 1693.

The Rev. Nicholas Brady married, on the 29th June, 1690, Letitia (daughter of Edward Synge, Bishop of Cork, as Sir Wm. Betham has stated, or if the account of William Brady, of Sydenham, be preferred, she was Letitia, granddaughter of that Bishop, and daughter of Richard Synge, who died Archdeacon of Cork in 1688, bequeathing to his daughter Letitia £500). Dr. Brady had issue by this lady four sons and four daughters.

Nicholas, the eldest, R. Tooting, Surrey, and LL.B., was baptized at St. Catherine-Cree Church, on 23rd March, 1692/3, and died on 11th December, 1768, and was buried at Clapham. He was married to Martha, dau. of William Lethulier, esq., of Clapham; and had issue an only son, William Brady, esq., of Sydenham, who married Susannah Le Keux, and died Sp. on 12th Sept., 1773. George, the second son of Dr. Brady, was born on 26th July, 1705; the third son has not been found in any registry; the fourth, Thomas, was baptized on 23rd September, 1707, at Richmond. Of the four daughters, Elisabeth, Letitia, Mary, and Martha, the last died unmarried, and the others married respectively Mr. Morgan, Mr. Woodhouse (a Quaker), and a Mr. Paton.

Dr. Brady's fourth son, THOMAS, with whose issue we are now concerned, married Eleanor, dau. of Rev. Dr. Cheyne, of Clapham, believed to have been of the family of the Cheynes, LORDS NEWHAVEN; and by her had issue (besides a daughter Letitia, wife of John Collins, esq., of Woolmers, Herts), a son, Nicholas William, born at Richmond in 1734, who was precluded from a learned profession by an impediment in his speech, and was therefore brought up to business. He came to Ireland in 1761, and established himself in Dublin, having previously married, on 4th Nov., 1758, at St. Clement Danes Church, in London, Dorothea Creighton, of Penrith, Cumberland. He died on 18th May, 1808, leaving issue inter alios Francis Tempest Brady, his eldest son, who died on 11th April, 1821, leaving issue Sir Nicholas William Brady, eldest son (Alderman, and Lord Mayor of Dublin, who was knighted by King George IV.); Maziere Brady, second son (now Lord Chancellor of Ireland), and Rev. Francis Tempest Brady, Chancellor of Lismore, for whom vide Kilworth, in Cloyne. He had also six daughters, Mary, Eliza, Letitia-Synge, Mary Anne (who all died unmarried), Charlotte (wife of John Mollan, esq., M.D., of Fitzwilliam-square, Dublin), and Dorothea (wife of Rev. David-Carlisle Courtenay, Rector of Glenarm, in the diocese of Connor).

The second son, MAZIERE BRADY, LORD CHANCELLOR OF IRELAND, married, firstly, Eliza-Anne, dau. of Beaver Buchanan, esq., of Dublin; and, secondly, on 15th Dec., 1860, Mary, dau. of Rt. Hon. John Hatchell. Chancellor Brady has issue by his first wife, who died 15th June, 1858, 1. Francis-William Brady, q.c. (who married on 7th Nov., 1847, Emily-Elisabeth, youngest dau. of Dr. Kyle, Bishop of Cork, and has issue a son Maziere-Kyle, born 25th March, 1849, and a daughter Marion-Eleanor); 2. Maziere-John Brady, esq., (who, by his wife Elisabeth, youngest dau. of Rev. Robert Longfield, V. Clonfert, Cloyne, q. v. has issue Robert-Maziere, Emily-Augusta-Mary, and Maude-Cherry-Elisabeth); 3. Eleanor (wife of Rev. Benjamin Hale Puckle, Rector of Graffham, Ely); 4. Charlotte; and 5. Eliza.

- "1699. About five miles to the west of Bandon, on the north side of the river, adjoining to the parish of Murragh, begins the parish of Kineigh. Near the river is Inniskean, a little market town, in the parish of Kineigh. The parish church of Kineigh stands three miles from Inniskean, to the north-west. Inniskean is the Earl of Corke's Estate.
- "Kineigh : 30 plowlands in this parish. Half the tythes of 14 plowlands belong to the Chantor, half the other 16 to the Vicars Choral. Kineigh Church is out of repair. Divine service once a fortnight at Inniskean, by Mr. Patrickson.

"Munday, May 27, 1700. I went to Kineigh; the parish church stands three miles distant from Ballimony to the N.N.W. The west end of the church is cover'd, but the wall-plates give way; the partition betwixt that part of the church which is cover'd and the east end, which is uncovered, is not plaister'd. A high round tower stands in the S.W. corner of the church-yard. A door was in the north side of the church, and, it is thought, opened into a vestry. 'Tis supposed this church was formerly a cathedral. The church-yard, being an acre, is well inclos'd with a stone wall. About 30 acres of glebe lie round the church of Kineigh. The country about Kineigh is iudifferent coarse. Mr. Woods, and Mr. Ware, and Mr. Woodly live in this parish. Towards the north, at about a mile distance from the church of Kineigh, begins the parish of Inchigeulah. There is no church northward of Kineigh Church nearer than Macrump, which is seven miles distant. Kineigh Church ought to be kept in repair, and divine service, at least, continued once a fortnight. Kineigh parish is worth to the Incumbent about fifty pounds per an. The lands of this parish belong chiefly to the Lord of Corke's brother. The country about Kineigh is indifferent coarse. But few Protestants live to the north of Kineigh. A stone is in the S.W. corner of the Church of Kineigh, counted very sacred, which the Irish solemnly swear upon. This church is accounted amongst the Irish very sacred. The Vicar's house, built with stone and thatch't, is standing, and there are the ruins of a barn and stable. There is a tradition amongst the Irish that formerly in the church-yard there was a well that had great medicinal vertues, and that the concourse of people being very chargeable to the inhabitants, they stop't it up. Half a plowland of Kineigh, lying near the church to the west, belongs to the Bishop of Corke, and contains about 60 English acres, indifferent coarse land. The Vicar of Kineigh has half the tithes of Kineigh. The Chantor of Corke has one rectory, and the Vicars Choral another. These two rectories are nearly equal in value." [Downes' Tour.]

"1699. At Kinsale the water is about 200 yards broad. On the west side of the river is the old fort, on the top of the hill; it is now neglected. There is a small block-house at the point of the same hill, with about seven embrasures, near high-water mark, and a little store-house in it, but no guns. The new fort is about a quarter of a mile below the block-house, on the east side of the river. It has five bastions of stone—those two that look towards the mouth of the harbour, with the curtain betwixt them have many embrasures, with guns planted in them. There are two tires of guns below the south curtine that faces the mouth of the harbour; the west curtine that looks across the water has one tire of guns below it. There are about 140 guns in all; 200 are designed. Several of the guns are off the carriages, and the carriages are laid up. There is a hill on the east of the fort, within 200 yards; it overlooks the fort. One of the bastions which looks towards the land is call'd the cittadell, and is enclosed on the inward side towards the fort. The channel runs within 100 yards of the new fort. There is a sort of a barr a little below the new fort, so that first and second rate ships can't well pass, unless it be at high water. The old head of Kinsale is the extreme point of land on the west side of the water. Pallisados, at the foot of the walls of the new fort, towards the land, were made in King James's time; pallisados on the counterscarp were made about the year 1694. The walls of the fort that face towards the land were not well made, the inside being nothing but rubbish, viz., the walls towards the land. The English, in 1691, attack'd the fort on the east side; they beat down the N.E. bastion from a battery plant'd on the side of the hill, at about 200 yards distance. Lord Marleburrough, after thirteen days' siege, had it surrendered to him by Sr. Ch. Cotter." [Downes' Tour.]

1694. In a list of churchwardens at the end of a V.B. of this date, is mentioned the churchwarden of Macloneigh "Robert Powell vulneratus a latronibus."

1699. "Two Protestant families; they go to Macromp, in Cloyne diocese." [V.B. 1699.]

"Oct. 15. 1700. I saw Macloneigh Church, near the river Lee, on the south side of it; the walls built with stone and lime, are standing uncover'd, about 60 foot long; the bounds of the church-yard are discernible, 'tis uncertain whether the inward or outward ditch. About 40 English acres of glebe lying round the church, belong to the Vicar; 'tis good land. No house near the church. Barry Swiney is Priest of this parish, and of Kilmichael. This church lies near the Lee, on the south side of the river; the town of Maclony is a mile distant towards the north-west. There are eight and a-half plowlands in this parish; all the lands were the estate of the Earl of Clancarty; for the most part good land; the Powells and about six families more of Protestants are in this parish. A proportion of the tythes of two plowlands in this parish, viz., of Killbarry and Killnaghrounagh, belongs to the Treasurer of St. Finbarry's; and 'tis said the proportion is half the said tythes. The monastery of Mourne Abby or Preceptory had the rest of the rectory; 'tis now enjoy'd by the Vicar, according to King Charles the Second's grant by the Act of Settlement. Farrenavaragan being half a plowland, containing at least eighty English acres, belongs to the Bishop of Corke. It lies contiguous to the glebe of Macloneigh; 'tis very good land, set by Mr. Warren, the Bishop's tenant, to Mr. Browne, for £9 per an.; it lies near the river Lee; half ye tithe of the lands of Coolcour and Slevins, lying on the north of the river Lee, belongs to the vicarage of Macloneigh. No churchwardens in this parish; there are generally no churchwardens in the parishes where the churches are out of repair; I left with Mr. Browne 7 "Tillotson's Sermons" and 12 small Prayer-books. No schoolmaster here, nor in Kilmichael, nor Inchigeelah, &c. Some people fancy that this was formerly a Bishop's see, but I could find no reason for any such belief."

"Oct. 15. 1700. I saw Kilmichael Church, built with stone and lime, about 50 foot long, besides the west end which is divided by a wall; it looks like a house; the walls of the church are standing uncovered; the bounds of the church-yard are discernible; it lies south-west of Macloneigh, at two miles distance. About 6 English acres of glebe lie round the church, belonging to the Incumbent. About 24 plowlands in this parish; a great part of it indifferent good land. The Earls of Cork and Clancarty have the lands of this parish. Mr. Edward Jermin and about 7 families of Protestants more live in this parish; this parish is worth at least £40 per an. to the Incumbent. The Earl of Corke, as Impropiator, has half the tithes of this parish. The Vicar has the other half. This church seems fittest to be rebuilt, on account of its situation being nearest the centre of those parishes, whose churches are ruinous." [Downes' Tour.]

The walls are almost quite down ; they were built with stone and clay ; the bounds of the church-yard are discernible ; the church is about four miles from Corke, not far from the river, within less than a mile of the Passage, on the same side. About three English acres of glebe lying round the church belong to the church of St. Finbarry's, set to the Terre tenant for about 40s. per an. ; the whole parish is but one plowland ; there is but one constable for this parish and Monkstown ; all the tithes of this parish were set this year for about £8, by Capt. Hayes ; they belong to the œconomy of St. Barry's, but the Vicars Choral pay 20th parts to the King for it. Mr. Burstead lives in this parish, and three or four Protestants more ; the lands of this parish belong, forty acres, to John Parsons, and forty acres to Roch, of Dunderrow, and forty acres to Konan ; the people go to Carrickoline to church, or St. Barry's ; this parish, time out of mind, is supposed to be united to the parish of St. Barry's." ### MONKSTOWN.

This ancient parish seems never to have had any Incumbent from the dissolution of the abbey to which it belonged until 1835. There is little notice of it in the diocesan records, except what here follows :—

"Oct. 1700. I saw Monkstown Church ; the walls, built with lime and sand, are standing ; the timber of the roof is up, and some slates on it ; the timber is beginning to decay. There is no sign of the bounds of the church-yard. There are two tombs on the south side of the church belonging to the family of Archdeacons, who were the antient proprietors of Monkstown. There are three plowlands in this parish, the lands of which belong to the Lord Primate Boyle. Mr. Callaghan, Protestant, lives at Monkstown, in a good square castle, with flankers. This church was repaired when Mr. Hodder lived at Monkstown, above twenty years ago. Monkstown is near the harbour of Cork, over against the Cove. From Monkstown we see the Island of Halleboling, Spike Island, &c. There is no tythe paid, nor allowance made to any clergyman out of this parish; 'tis pretended by the inhabitants 'tis tythe-free; the tythes are set together with the lands to the tenants. The people of this and the adjacent parishes go to Carickoline Church—viz., those of Barnehely and Kilmurry. No glebe in this parish. The lands of this parish belonged to the Abby of St. Catherine's, of Waterford. Colonel Hunks had these lands in Cromwell's time. Hunks was supposed to be concerned in the murder of King Charles I.; he sold them to Primate Boyle before the Court of Claims, who made good Hunks his title in the Court of Claims. He gave about £400 for it to Hunks. The same person is Popish Priest of this parish and Carickoline, Kilmurry, and Templebredy, and Barnahely, and Ringskiddy. 'Tis alledg'd in these parts that Abby lands pay no tythe. The tythes of this parish have been set formerly for above £20 per an.; they are now worth £20 per an. John Archdeacon, before 1641, was paid no tythe out of these lands." [Downes' Tour.]

1830. Protestant population, 241.

1831. June 20. Daniel and Gerard Callaghan, esquires, of Cork (being tenants to Lords Longford and De Vesci), grant, at nominal rent of one peppercorn, one rood of land at Monkstown for a church; and on 28th July, the Earl of Longford and Viscount De Vesci lease the same land for ever, at same rent of one peppercorn. [D.R.]

1831. July 28. Thomas, Earl of Longford, and John, Viscount De Vesci (being appointed patrons to nominate a Vicar, either jointly or alternately), grant £50 per annum for ever out of the lands of Monkstown (of which they are tenants in common) as an endowment for Monkstown. [D.R.]

1833. January 10. A building, intended for a parish church, is licensed for divine service. [D.R.]

1833. Sept. 6. ARTHUR GEORGE HARPER HOLLINGSWORTH, A.M., is licensed to officiate in the building in Monkstown not yet consecrated; and on 13th August, 1835, he is instituted to the Vicarage of Monkstown, on presentation of Lord De Vesci. [D.R.]

A. G. H. Hollingsworth was ordained Priest at Cloyne on 15th of Feb. 1829. He married, in 1825, Miss Margaret Mountford, of Cove.

He resigned Monkstown on 11th January, 1836, and is now Vicar of Stowmarket, in Suffolk, England.

1836. Feb. 26. ALEXANDER STUART, A.M., Vicar, on presentation of Lord De Vesci. [D.R.] In 1842 Stuart became Archdeacon of Ross, q. v.

1837. Monkstown, a vicarage, with cure,  $3\frac{1}{2}$  miles long by 2 broad, containing 2,504A. 1R. 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ P. Gross population, 2,199. No Curate employed. From stipend payable by Impropiator, £50; pew rents, £4 7s. 6d.; surplice fees, £1 ls. 3 acres of glebe, valued at £5 per acre, £15. Augmentation allowance, payable by Ecclesiastical Commissioners out of Boulter's Fund, £25. Monkstown glebe-house is reported to be almost unfit for residence, being very old, and in very bad repair. Incumbent does not state when it was built, at what cost, or from what funds supplied, but adds, "that no money has been expended on it as such, having been only lately made a glebe-house." Incumbent is usually resident in the glebe-house. One church, capable of accommodating 270 persons, built in 1832, at the cost of about £1,500, British, raised by subscriptions. No charge on the parish in 1832 on account of the church. Divine service is celebrated twice on Sundays from May to November, and once during the remainder of the year, and on Christmas Day, New Year's Day, Ash Wednesday, and Good Friday. The sacrament is administered monthly, and on the festivals. The tithes of this parish, compounded for £90, are wholly impropriate, and belong to Lord De Vesci; but it is reported that they have never been demanded or paid as such. The glebe is subject to a rent of £25. [Parl. Rep.]

1839. August 3. THOMAS GIBBINGS, A.M., V. Monkstown, on presentation of Lord De Vesci, dated 19th June, 1839. [D.R.] In 1851 Gibbings became Treasurer of Cloyne, q. v.

Sacrament at Glenbrook monthly, and at festivals; average of communicants, 10. 19 children are on the rolls of a Church Education school. The Protestant population is 600.

The walls and roof of the church in pretty good repair ; a pulpit and communion table ; no seats but one ; not flag'd ; the church-yard inclos'd ; about 30 acres of glebe near the church ; good land. Over against Murragh, on the south side of the river Bandon, lyes the parish of Desert ; the church is about half an English mile from the church of Murragh ; the church walls and roof in pretty good repair ; a pulpit and several seats ; a communion table. A good church-yard, but not inclosed ; about 60 acres of glebe joining to the church-yard ; half the glebe is claimed by the Vicars Choral ; Mr. Lord pays them 30s. per an. for it ; about 80 persons at church on Sundays. 'Tis supposed the Earl of Corke has, in his possession, several acres belonging to the glebe. Mr. Synge, the Curate, lives at a pretty good house, within a quarter of a mile of the Church of Desert. Garrivoe, a rectory in Desert parish, being half the tythes of 14 plowlands, is a sinecure, in the gift, it is said of the Lord of Kinsale. Killowen is a rectory, sinecure, in Murragh parish."

"Tuesday, May 28, 1700. I view'd Murragh and Desert, and returned to Ballimony. Murragh parish lyes on the north side of the river Bandon ; the church is in good repair, it stands near the river ; the church-yard is fenc'd. Divine service here once a fortnight, and once a fortnight at Desert, performed by Mr. Synge, Curate to Mr. Lord. John Lamb is Parish Clerk to both parishes. There are two churchwardens in this parish. The Clerk teaches school. 17 plowlands in this parish. The sacrament administered four times a year in this church ; catechizing in part of the summer. Daniel Hurley, a quiet man, Popish Priest, serves this and three or four contiguous parishes ; he has been here since before the late troubles. There are more Protestants than Papists in this parish. There are about 100 Protestant families here ; about twenty of these families are Dissenters; they go to Bandon. There was a registry bought lately; a Bible and two Common Prayer-books, Linnen, a silver chalice and paten, and pewter flagon and plate. About 40 acres of glebe round the church; very good land, set for about £5 or £6 per annum. The rectory is worth to Mr. Lord about £70 per annum. They pay tythes of potatoes in this parish, and in all this country. Few poor here belonging to this parish. The Earl of Corke has almost all this parish; Captain Bernard, Thomas Ware, live in this parish. Desert-surgis parish lyes on the south side of the river Bandon; it reaches to within two miles of Bandon. The church is in good repair. Divine service once a fortnight by Mr. Synge, Curate to Mr. Lord. The sacrament four times in ye year. Mr. Synge has £30 per an. for serving this cure, and the cure of Murrogh, besides the English Bookmoney. Two churchwardens in this parish. The Protestants are equal to the Papists in number; there are about 150 families of Protestants in this parish. The Clerk teaches school for this parish and Murragh. No Popish schoolmasters in this parish; 30 plowlands in this parish. There is a registry lately bought; a Bible and Common Prayer-books lately bought. A rate made for linnen, &c., for the communion. About 60 acres of glebe, good land, round the church, worth about £10 per an. Half the tythes of this parish belong to Mr. Lord, the Vicar, the other half belongs to the Vicars Choral of Corke, and to Mr. Hewit, as Rector of one part of this parish; the Vicars Choral have also half the glebe. Dennis Mahony is Popish Priest of this parish. Mr. Henry Boyle, brother to the Earl of Corke, Mr. Gookin, Counsellor Bernard, Sir Richard Cox, Purser Atkins, Mr. Richard Beamish, Mr. Wade, Mr. John Beamish, Alderman Love, of Corke, have most of the lands in this parish. Major Herbert Love, Mr. Charles Gookin, Mr. Richard Beamish, live in this parish.

"Tuesday, the 28th May, 1700. I went to see the churches of Murragh and Desert. Murragh Church is on the north of the Bandon river, near the river; it is in repair, only the east end and some part of the south side hangs over; 'tis built, as the other churches generally are, with stone and clay, slated; there is a pulpit, desk, and one pew. A good church-yard, fenced; 'tis undermined by the river; part of it is worn away. This parish is worth about £70 or £80 per an. to the Incumbent. The glebe lies round the church, containing about 30 acres. There was formerly a vicarage-house within the church-yard. There are Common Prayer-books, but they borrowed the Bible from Desert. Two churchwardens. The lands of this parish belong almost intirely to the Earl of Cork. Captain Bernard lives in this parish; some Dissenters live in this parish. Mr. Lord, the Incumbent, allows £30 per annum, and the obven-tions of the Protestants to Mr. Synge, for serving the cures of this parish and Desert. Divine service here once a fortnight, and Mr. Synge preaches at Desert once a fortnight. Desert Church in good repair, well furnish't with seats, a very good roof. A table-cloth, pewter flagon and silver cup that serves both Murragh and Desert. There is a Bible, but Common Prayer-books are wanting. The church-yard fence; about 100 acres of glebe round the church, part of it is boggy; heretofore the glebe was set for £8 per annum. Two churchwardens. This parish is worth about £60 per an. to the Incumbent. The Incumbent has half the tythes of this parish; the other half is enjoyed partly by the Vicars Choral of Corke, and partly by Mr. Hewit, who had his rectory by the presentation of the Lord of Kinsale. He appears 1725 to 1729. [V.B. D.R.]

Thomas Sheridan, the son of Patrick Sheridan, a gentleman who possessed a small estate near Kilmore, in Cavan, was a near relative of Patrick Sheridan, Bishop of Cloyne, and of William Sheridan, his brother, Bishop of Kilmore. By the help of the last-named prelate, Thomas Sheridan, when twenty years of age, was enabled to enter T.C.D. as a Pensioner, on 18th Oct., 1707. He subsequently attained the degree of D.D. in that University.

Having entered into holy orders, he became a schoolmaster; and was so much esteemed in that capacity as to have sometimes made £1,000 in a year by his school. He was soon distinguished by the friendship of the celebrated Swift; and his correspondence with the great Dean of St. Patrick's forms almost the entire of one of the volumes of Swift's Miscellanies. By the Dean's interest Sheridan was appointed Chaplain to the Lord Lieutenant, and in 1724 R. V. Rincurran, which he exchanged in 1730 for the V. Dunboyne and Kilbride, in Meath diocese. The latter preferment he exchanged also in 1734 for the Mastership of the Royal School at Cavan. He lost in money, however, by his successive changes; and after disposing of the Cavan school for about £400, he fell into bad health, and died on 10th Sept., 1738, aged about 51 years.

His character is given at some length by another friend of Swift, the fifth EARL OF CORK, who describes Sheridan as a man well versed in books and in the Greek and Latin languages, but ignorant of the value of money, careless, and improvident. His fortunes at the Castle of Dublin were marred by his negligence in preaching at Cork, on the 1st of August, the anniversary of King George's accession, on the text, "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." He lost, by this unlucky sermon, his post of Chaplain to the Lord Lieutenant, LORD CARTERET, who, although accustomed to the petulance of Swift, never pardoned Sheridan's ill-timed, if not unintentional, joke upon his Sovereign.

Dr. Sheridan remained, says Lord Cork, despite his disgrace at the Viceregal Court, "a punster, a quibbler, a fiddler, and a wit. Not a day passed without a rebus, an anagram, or a madrigal. His pen and his fiddlestick were in continual motion."

Yet, though thus unfortunate in life, and deemed worthy of no higher promotion than a Cork living or a Cavan school, Sheridan was fortunate in transmitting the genius he undoubtedly possessed in a high degree to his descendants. He left issue by his wife, Elisabeth McFadden, a lady of worth and talent, two sons, Richard and Thomas, and four daughters, Anne, Elisabeth, Meliora, and Esther. His son Thomas became a famous actor, philologist, and lexicographer, and was father (by his wife, Frances, a granddaughter of SIR OLIVER CHAMBERLAINE), of the celebrated statesman, dramatist, and orator, RICHARD BRINSLEY SHERIDAN, as also of an elder son, Charles Francis Sheridan, Secretary-at-War in Ireland, and author of "The History of the Revolution in Sweden in 1772."

R. B. Sheridan, the statesman, was twice married—first, to Elisabeth-Anne, dau. of Thomas Linley, and afterwards to Esther-Jane Ogle, dau. of the Dean of Winchester. His son by the first marriage, Thomas Sheridan, married Caroline Henrietta, dau. of Colonel Callender, and left issue, inter alios, Richard Brinsley Sheridan, of Frampton-court, county Dorset; Charles-Kinnaird Sheridan, Attaché to the Embassy at Paris; Helen-Selina, wife of the fourth, and mother of the fifth LORD DUFFERIN and CLANEBOY; Caroline-Elisabeth-Sarah, wife of HON. G. C. NORTON; and Jane Georgina, wife of EDWARD ADOLPHUS, DUKE OF SOMERSET.

1641. April 27. RICHARD BENNETT was admitted a Vicar Choral. [F.F.] He was also Vicar of the Little Island in 1639. He took a degree in T.C.D. in 1641.
- In 1641 the Vicars depose to loss of church-rents, to amount, per annum, of £90 10s., during the rebellion. MS. T.C.D. F. 2. 16.]
1651. Mr. Richard French left £1 per an. to poor of St. Finbarry.
1661. SAMUEL BONNER has the four places. [V.B. D.R.] In 1662 he became P. St. Michael's, q. v. He died in 1666 or 1667.
- 1666 to 1668. The four places are vacant. [D.R. V.B.]
1669. JOHN HARRISON (V. Kilcaskin, Ross); JOHN BAYLY (P. St. Michael's); WILLIAM LOVE (organist in 1685); and JOHN WEBB (P. Inskenny, and Chancellor of Cloyne), are the Vicars Choral. [V.B. 1669.]
- Harrison appears 1669 to 1682, and Bayly 1669 to 1672. [V.B. D.R.]
- In 1670 only Harrison and Bayly appear: "alii vacant." [V.B. D.R.]
1672. On a salver, weighing 26 oz. 19 dwts., is this inscription, "Deo sacratum Eccles. et Cathedral. St. Finbarry's, Corcag. 1672. Hic est Panis qui de celo descendit Qui manducat hunc panem vivet in æternum."
1674. JOHN TINDALL (he appears 1674 to 1686), WILLIAM SCROGGS (R. Kilnemartery, Cloyne, q. v.), who appears as Vic. Chor. Cork, 1674 to 1680, MATHEW ROMIER, and JOHN HARRISON are the Vicars Choral. [V.B. 1674. D.R.] In 1677 Romier's place is marked vacant. [V.B. D.R.]
1675. August 31. A visitation book of this date has the following notice of the tower of St. Finbarry's:—"Epus admonuit Decanum et Cap. ad tegend, et vitecis (sic) claudend. turrim." &c. [V.B.]
1679. THOMAS DENT appears as a Vicar Choral. [V.B. D.R.] In 1680 he was licensed to the cure of Ballinaboy. In 1682 he became P. Kilnaglory, q. v.
1680. JOHN GRIFFITH appears as a Vicar Choral. [V.B. D.R.] In 1684 he appears as R. V. Kilsillagh, in Ross. In 1685 he became a Minor Canon and Vicar Choral of St. Patriek's, Dublin. He appears as Vic. Chor. Cork, 1680 to 1685. [V.B.] On 4th Dec. 1685, he was suspended at the visitation. [Addenda to V.B. 1685.]

1681. EDWARD HINDE (vice Scroggs?), appears as Vicar Choral. [V.B.]

1682. RICHARD GOODMAN (vice Hinde), appears as a Vicar Choral from 1682 to 1691. [V.B.] In 1718 he became P. Desertmore, q. v.

An assault committed on the person of this clergyman gave occupation to the Ecclesiastical Court of Cork about this time. The following is a specimen of the entries relative to the case :

"Negotium injectiōis manuum violentarum in Richum Goodman, Vic. Chor. : per Robtum Rogers, Alderman. Corcag. Civit." [Court Book of 1683. D.R.]

1683 to 1691. THOMAS GOODMAN (vice Harrison), appears as Vicar Choral. [V.B.] In 1719 he was R. Templetrine, q. v.

1683. Mr. William Smart left £8 per an., and his widow £4 per an. to the poor of St. Finbarry.

In 1684, the Goodmans are admonished to discharge their duties as Vicars Choral, and to attend on every Sunday and holiday in the cathedral. Richard is called to answer articles for having celebrated a marriage without banns or licence, and both Richard and Thomas are desired not to preach without licence. [Addenda to V.B. 1684.]

The following documents, extracted from the Visitation Books of 1684 and 1685, attest the zeal of Bishop Edward Synge to maintain the daily choral service in the cathedral, which seems to have been grossly neglected by the officials in ancient and modern times :—

"November 20, 1684. Acta habita, &c.—Quo die : Quoad obsequia et quotidiana ministeria vicariorum Choralium organistæ et ceterorum membrorum Chori ecclisæ Cathed. St. finbarry Corcagiensis, Dnus Epūs ordinācones et decreta sua subscripta sermone Anglicano perspicue intelligenda, servanda, observanda, apparenda et ab ipsis respectivo perimplenda et obtemperanda registrari et insinuari mandavit, quorum tenor sequitur et est talis. Whereas, both by the general complaint of people, and by our owne observacion it appeareth to us, that the publiq service of God is grossly neglected by the Vicars Chorall of the Cathedral Church of St. finbarries, Corke, and through their example (or as wee have reason to beelieve through the advice and approvement of some of them) by the organist, and others of the quire, contrary to orders made and provided in our primary visitacion, in the year 1679, as allsoe to other orders of the same import in ye visitacion of the yeare 1680, both given under our hand and seale. Wee, therefore, for the effectual reformation thereof, doe order, decree, and injoyne as followeth :—first, that all the fower Vicars Chorall, the organist, and all members of the quire, doe from this day forward attend every Lord's Day att the canonickall hours, morning and evening, all (saving the organist) in their surplices, and from and after the first Sunday in Advent next ensuing, dayly, and every day in the weeke, att the same canonickall hours, morning and evening, and in the same habitt then and there to perform the service of the church, in the best melodies that they can, according to cathedrall use. Secondly, that they all take care to behave themselves with such seriousness, gravity, and devotion in all parts of their office, as becomes the worship of God, especially that they avoyde laughing, talking, and even needelesse whispering to one another in service time, as allsoe all indecent postures and gestures of body. Thirdly, that if any of the Vicars Chorall and other members of the quire being present att service shall willfully forbear to sing, chant, or answer in their course, such their willfull silence shall bee interpreted and punished as totall absence for that weeke. Provided nevertheless that if the Deane of the said cathedrall shall perceive or knowe any of the Vicars Chorall to bee diligent in their studyes, and improveing themselves in theologicall learning, it shall and may be free for him att his pleasure to dispense with the absence of such two of them upon ordinary days of the weeke, or upon any p'ticular incident occasion, as he sees fitt, yet soe that there bee always two of the said Vicars morning and evening ever in constant attendance. And in case one of the said two, whose course of attendance it is, should bee through sickness or business enforced to bee absent, he shall provide some other of his brethren to attend in his roome. All these orders and injunctions wee decree and require to bee observed by the said Vicars Chorall, organist, and other quire men, as they will answeare the neglect of God's service, and bringing it into contempt with the people, before God's Tribunall att the last day; and in the meane while before us att our next visitation sub pœna juris et contemptus, and before the Deane ordinarily under such mulcts, fines or punishments as have beene usuall or are canonickall in this case.

"Given under our hand and seale mannuall this 20th day of November, pendente visitacione Chori, Anno Dni. 1684.—E. Corke (seal) Rosse."

A dispute having arisen among the Vicars Choral concerning the payment of the organist, the following decree is pronounced by the Bishop on 25th November, 1684:—

"Whereas upon full hearing what the Vicars Choral have to say in defence of their owne claims, and after several admonitions that if they had any further evidences to justify their claims they should produce them, as likewise upon due examination of all such records, old visitation books, and all other papers relating hereto, which have come to my hands, there appears no evidence or color of evidence that the small tithes of St. finbarries did of old belong to the Vicars Chorall of said church, but rather that they were (as is alleadged by the Reverend Dr. Arthur Pomeroy, Deane of the said church), cast in amongst other things by the said Deane and Chapter for the encouragement of the said Vicars, and towards the mainteining of an organist. And whereas we have seene an order or determination made by the most Rev. Father in God, Thomas, Lord Archbishop of Cashell, in his triennial visitation, Ano. Dni. 1676, that the Vicars Chorall injoying such means as therein specified, and p'ticularly the small tithes of St. finbarie's not reserved to the œconomy, the organist of the said church should enjoy the full benefitt, that is, as wee conceive, his share or full dividend of the said means, wee do therefore order and require that the Vicars Chorall observe the said determinacion of ye most Rev. the Archbishop of Cashell, and that they forthwith pay unto ye p'sent organist such arrears of salary as are to him due, and for the future, at ye usuall times of paiement, do from time to time pay him his share or part as it becomes due, and that they certifie their obedience to this our order, under the hand of the said organist, by Christmas Day next ensuing, under the pain of sequestracion of all their benefices till such time as the said organist shall be satisfied and paid such arrears as are, by the adjustment of the said Deane, now due to him." [Addenda to V.B. 1684.]

"The addressse of the Bishop and Clergy of Cork and Rosse to King JAMES ye SECOND.

"To the King's Most Excellent Majestie.

"The most humble address of the Bishop and Clergy of the Diocesses of Corke and Ross, in Ireland."

"Though wee have already, most of us, in the addressse made by the body of our countye, and by severall corporacions therein, given such demonstracions of our zeale towarde your sacred Majestie, as wee have had opportunity for, as well by word as by example, according to our bounden Duty exciting and animating our neighbours to the vowes and practice of all faith and Allegiance, yett considering the clergy of these three nations can never pay sufficient Thankes and duty to your Majestie for your most graciouse promise to protect and maintain our Religion as by law established,—Wee most humbly crave leave, afresh and apart by ourselves, to present our vowes to God and your Majestie, that as our lives are not deare to us in comparison of our Religion and Loyaltie, soe wee will not fayle, though with the perill of our lives (God being our helper), according to our uttmost power by the strictist tyes of our Religion (which abhorrs all Resistance or unfaithfulness to Princes), to secure to your Majestie both our owne and our people's Loyaltie and obedience, and wee will incessantly importune the Throne of Grace to preserve your Majestie's sacred person from all violence, treachery, or any evill accidents, till it please Him by whom Kings reign, that in a good old age you exchange your crowne. Dated at Corke, Mar. 16, 1684/5.

Deane of Corke.

E. Corke, Rosse.

Chanter, &c.

D. of Rosse."

[Second Book of Cork Registry, fol. 55.]

"1685. Dec. 4. William Love, the organist, is ordered to attend dayly. Love is satisfied to resign if he be paid what is due to him."

"1685. Dec. 15. In Chapter-house—at visitation of Dean, and Chapter, and Quire—present only Walter Neale, Thesaur., Row. Davies, P. Lisclery, and Henry Ryder, P. Holy Trinity. The Bishop decreed as follows:—

"Whereas the service of God is not a little slighted and neglected by the common sort of people, as may be conceived by reason of the very seldom attendance of them, whom in duty it concerns to attend itt, to the very great scandall of our Church and itt's Constitution amongst its adversaries. ffor the more effectuall Redress hereof as farr as in us lies, wee order, decree, and enjoyn as followeth:—

"1. That all Dignitaries and Prebendaries, when they come to preach their Turus in Course, doe, from and after the feast of ye Nativity of our Lord next ensueing, reside and attend att and during divine service in their Surplices and habitts belonging to their degrees, att the least three days of the weeke into which their course falls, att morning and evening prayer in the Quire of Saint finbarrie's. And that for this purpose those of them who have manse houses, provide and reserve to themselves Lodgeings in their manshouses.

"2. That the orders and Rules of the attendance of the Vicars and members of the Quire affixt up in the vestry being now by reason of Interlinacons very untertaynd be writt over again fairly, and made in all things to agree with the orders deliver'd to the Quire in my Visitation of the year 1684, and Reinforced this p'sent Visitation.

"3. That the Organist attend ordinarily att morning and evening prayers every day from and after the feast of St. Thomas the Apostle next ensueing, then and there to discharge his duty for the more regular p'forming the chorall service and improving of the Quire.

"4. That the Virger alsoe attend, as the Organist is before required, ordinarily every day for the keeping better order in the Church.

"All these orders Wee decree and Enjoyn to be observed respectively by those whom they concern, under paine of admonicion for the first, and suspencion for the second offence.

Given under my hand and Episcopall Seale this fifteenth day of December, Ao. Di. 1685.” [Addenda to V.B. of 1685.]

- 1686 to 1695. ALEXANDER OGLEBY (vice Griffith) appears as Vicar Choral. [V.B.] He was not admitted until 23rd January, 1694. His appointment was by the Dean, and the Bishop disputed it. In 1693 he became P. C. Ballinaboy, q. v. He was suspended from his Vicar Choralship on 11th January, 1694. [Addenda to V.B. 1694.]

1686. Thomas Goodman seems to have resisted the efforts of the Bishop to improve the choral service, as all the Vicars Choral, but especially Thomas Goodman, and the choristers, are again admonished to attend the daily choral service,—“constanter et quotidie attendere choro Cathedralis et in ibi cantare.” Goodman’s absence from the holy communion is also censured. [Addenda V.B. 1686.]

1687. WILLIAM DENNY (vice Tyndall) appears as a Vicar Choral. [V.B.] In 1688 he became V. Whitechurch, Cloyne, q. v.

1688. “The Bishop admonisht the Vicars Choral to attend the dayly service of the church at the usual times,” &c. “Item, Mr. William Denny, a Prebendal Vicar Choral of ye Cathedral Church of St. Finbarry’s, Cork, being duely cited to appear and undergoe this visitation, Mr. Denny’s Vicar’s place (is decreed) vacant.” [Addenda V.B. 1688.]

- 1688 to 1693. ANDREW SYMMES (vice Denny) appears as a Vicar Choral. [V.B.] In 1718 he became Precentor of Ross, q. v.

“Declaratio recognito et Protestatio Dni Edwi. Corcagen. et Rossen. Epi circa acta and gesta Arthuri Pomeroy, Decani Cork:—

“Whereas, I, Edward, Lord Bp. of Cork and Rosse, was yesterevening, in ye face of ye congregation in ye church of St. finbarry, near Cork, besides other abuses and oppositions given me, contrary to all canons, law, and good order, charged with injustice and wrong, with having p’varicated in my opinions and practices, with disobedience of divers of his Majesty’s proclamations and commands, and haply with several like enormities which I could not take notice of or doe not remember, for ye clearing thereof of my selfe from all these injust imputations, although my innocency is sufficiently known to all my brethren of ye chapter who are in or about ye citty, all who, except my accuser, are ready to attest it, yet to ye end noe scruple may sticke with ye people in whose hearing I was accused, or anywise blast my ministry towards them or others, I have thought fitt publickly to declare:—In generell, yt blessed be God, in whose feare I speake it, I have, through his grace, lived in ye faithful discharge of my duty with all good conscience, and setting aside my infirmityes, am free from these or any other like vile offences. I never, yt I doe remember, willingly and deliberately invaded ye right of any p'son in my life ; and where, through passion or ignorance, I have done any verbal wrong or otherwise injured any, I still made as suddaine and as ample a satisfacion as I could ; nor doth (I thanke God) my conscience at p'sent accuse me of allowing my selfe either in doing wrong, or in ye practice of any knowne sin, or neglect of any knowne Christian duty. And in particular as to yt act of mine wherein I was charged with wrong and injustice, I do avow it was just and good my right and duty to doe, namely, to finish my visitacion, which because ye principall day for it fell on ye Lord's Day, a time unfit for any businesse (if it may be deferred) but devotion, I adjourned till munday, and ye one of ye principall p'sons whose assistance wee needed to redress some things amiss willfully absenting himself, I was forced to adjourne it ye seconde time, hoping I might obtaine ye said p'sons p'sence, which by law and his canonically oath he was bound unto, which I say I was in going about, was both my right and duty, as all clergymen, who will not be willfully blinde, doe plainly see and acknowledge ; nor did I intend any violence or rigour, but all candor and brotherly love in my proceedings, as my brethren, to whom I communicated my intentions beforehand, knew and know. As to ye charge of prevaricating in my opinions and practices, I confess I know not well what that means ; but not to indulge ye temptation of reflecting upon any other, I answer as to ye matters I suspect designed by ye accuser, namely, ye strict pressing all parts of ye church liturgie as at p'sent it stands. I have conferred with ye most learned men I could meet with, I have read, studied, and prayed, I have determined nothing rashly, I have been candid in declaring my judgement before my subscription and since, both in private and publick. My opinion, as to such points as I suspect meant, was in print, and dedicated to your two primates, yt now are of England and Ireland, before I was made a Bishop ; it hath been publisht again on another occasion since ; what is enjoined by our church I have proved to be lawful, what I conceived more excellent I frankly declared ; in ye mean time I never practiced contrary, either to what by ye law, Ecclieall, antient, and moderne, I might doe, or to what in conscience I approved, though for peace sake and obedience, which I wish all may affect as much as I doe, I have denied myselfe some satisfaction ; and as to ye expedience of some things, I have sacrificed my private sentiments to such constitucions as I have been informed by some of ye principall Authors ye necessity of times would p'mitt, though I have now lived to see those very reasons, which were other mens as well as mine, generally p'vail amongst ye most learned in ye English church, and this I need not be ashamed nowe to owne ; but in all this, I say, noe man reasonably can affirme there is any thing of p'varication.'

"As to ye last point I can recollect charged upon me, of disobeying his Majesties proclamation, though they may be taxed thereof who make illegall assemblies of persons incapacitated for such purposes as they called them to, yet I, in visiting legally ye clergy, can be noe more supposed to act agt those proclamacions yn ye civill magistrates by calling people to courts of justice or civill governt, or ye parochiall ministers for assembling ye people togeather to ye worship of God, to both which Episcopall visitacions have a singular conducency. Having now shewne how unjusto this charge was, I might expose it alsoe as most irregular, and proceed immediately to censure; but instead thereof I onely add, yt as to all p'sonall affronts and injuries done me in ye whole action, I, from my heart, intirely forgive, and humbly beg God, through Jesus Christ, through whom alone I hope for mercy, to forgive ye author of them all; and as to ye wrong done to ye order in which God hath been pleased to place me, and to ye Episcopall power and jurisdiction, I deferre ye righting of that to more favourable, I mean more peaceable times, which God hasten, when I believe a nationall Synod, if any such sitt in our age will noe more approve . . . . . [The rest of this line is torn.]

a diocesan Synod can be now had doth; and in ye meantime I further declare myselfe to be in p'fect charity with all and every of my breathren, my accuser not excepted, and in a word, with all ye world; and I give notice yt as being soe I intend ye next Lord's Day, in ye next p'rish church where ye Lord's Supper, according to our use, is celebrated, if I can gett thither, if not, in my own chappell, to receive ye wholly cōmunion, where I envite any peaceable, well-disposed Christians to meet me, and soe conclude with pt of ye Angell's hyme, not in ye words of a certaine bad translation, peace be to men of good will, but peace on earth, peace be to all men, peace be to men yt have good will, and as to those who doe not, God give ym a good will yt they may have peace, goodwill to mankinde.

"Lecta, recognita et probata fuit haec declaratio recognitio et protestatio a nobis in Ecclesia Cathedrali St. finbarry corcag. die Jovis octavo scilicet die mensis Nov. Ano Dni. 1689.—Eddrs. Corcagiensis et Rossensis." [D.R.]

1692 to 1696. VALENTINE FRENCH (vice one of the Goodmans) appears as Vicar Choral. [V.B.] He was not admitted until 29th Dec. 1694. [D.R.] His appointment was probably in dispute between the Dean and Bishop. In 1692 there were but three Vicars, Ogleby, French, and Symes.

French became, in 1717, Dean of Ross, q. v.

1694 to 1697. JOHN DEWEY (vice Symes), appears as Vicar Choral. [V.B. D.R.] At the visitation of 1694 Dewey was ordered to take out a proper licence within a month, on pain of suspension. [Addenda to V.B. 1694.] And, accordingly, he was formally admitted on 11th January, 1694/5. [D.R.] Dewey became, in 1696, R. Ardnegihy, q. v.

In 1694 and 1695 there are but three Vicars, Ogleby, French, and Dewey. In 1696 only two (French and Dewey), appear. [V.B. D.R.]

1695. April 25. The Bishop causes the following memorandum to be inserted in the registry:—"His Grace of Cashel claymes the right of visiting the first year of his accession, but waives it (out of favour to the clergy, and by reason of the late calamities, and because they were so lately visited by his predecessor), until the three years should be compleate." [D.R.]

1698. BENJAMIN WALL, JOHN VYSE, and EDMUND MOLLOY, are the Vicars Choral, the fourth vicarage being vacant. [V.B.] Of Wall there is no further mention, except that in 1697 his name is to a marriage bond, as Benjamin Wall, of St. Finbarry's, Clerk. Vyse was admitted on 2nd August, 1699, [F.F.] and in February of 1699/700 became V. Kilroe and Scull, vacating his Vicarage Choral. Molloy was admitted on 6th Sept. 1698 [F.F.] per mortem John Dewey, and continued a Vicar Choral until his death in 1735. [V.B.] Molloy was for many years P. C. Ballinaboy.

"Abstract of the decision of William, Archbishop of Cashel, touching the right of presenting to the Vicarages Choral, now disputed by Dean Pomeroy against the Bishop of Cork. The Bishop of Cork's claim is, that some of his predecessors founded and endowed the College of Vicars Choral out of episcopal lands.

"This foundation is proved by the Vicar's hall and houses (the ruins still to be seen) and lands called Vicar's lands or acres, all, both houses and lands, being encompassed by the Bishop's land.

"Also, by a grant of certain proffitts to Vicars Choral, made by Dominick, Bishop of Cork, 1554. This original grant now to be seen and read by me (i.e., by the Archbishop.)

"The Archbishop of Cashel refers to Sir James Ware De Præsulibus Hiberniæ, p. 168, who says of Walter le Rede (translated from Cork to Cashel, 1330) 'Cum adhuc Epûs esset Corcag. Vicariis ibm habitaconem comodam assignavit.' He refers also to the same author, de Archiepis Cassil et Tuam, published 1626. Ware, noted in margin, says he had this Ex Archivis Corcag. ecclie. The Bishop also quoted R. V. 1634, out of Prerogative Office, by which it appeared that Brock, Johns, and Binns, were admitted and instituted by the Bishop, with mandate to ye Dean to install. The Bishop also urged that Michael Boyle, the first Bishop after the Restoration, exercised his right without contest; and that Dean Roger Boyle, afterwards Bishop of Clogher, acted merely as his commissary in appointing to the Vicarages Choral.

"Dean Pomeroy alleges per contra that, since his being Dean, he has collated to the Vicarages Choral, and by his own right appointed William Scroggs, Mathias Kenion, John Tindal, Edward Hine, Thomas Deut, Thomas Goodman, Alexander Ogilby, William Denny, and John Dewey; but the Bishop contested these appointments, and several of these persons took out fresh titles from the Bishop.

"Dean P. also alleges that the Dean is Ordinary of the Cathedral, and therefore collates; but the Archbishop of Cashel says he might also on those grounds claim to appoint the Prebendaries.

"Dean Pomeroy also alleges that Dean Fitzgerald (father to the present Bishop of Clonfert), before ye warrs, upon a contest, carried the disposal of the Vicarages Choral from the Bishop of Cork; but the Archbishop says that he spoke to the Bishop of Clonfert, who recollects nothing about it; and that even if it were true that the then Bishop, by reason of infirmities, or that Bishop Synge (when the gout had rendered him incapable of government) permitted the Dean to do as he pleased, yet that this could weigh little against prescription and long possession.

"On the whole, the Archbishop of Cashel decides that the Bishops of Cork, as founders, &c., have the right of collation. March 26, 1698." [D.R.]

1699. HENRY GOUGH and THOMAS DERHAM, besides VYSE and MOLLOY, are the Vicars. [V.B.] Gough appears 1699 to 1711. He became afterwards P. Templebryan, Ross, q. v. Derham was admitted 1699, July 22, and continued a Vicar Choral until his death in 1705. [D.R.] He held Creagh, in Ross, and Killeagh, in Cloyne, along with this Vicarage Choral, for many years, and died P. Kilnaglory, q. v.

"1700. The parish of St. Barry's contains sixteen plowlands. All the tythes of corn of the sixteen plowlands in this parish belong to the œconomy of St. Barry's. All the rest of the tythes of these sixteen plowlands belongs to the Vicars Choral of St. Barry's. The Dean and Chapter receive the œconomy part, and are supposed to be the Incumbents. No church belongs to this parish, except the Cathedral of St. Barry's. No glebe belongs to this parish, only the manse, belonging to the Dean, Dignitaries, and Prebendaries, which are reckon'd part of this parish. The Prebendaries' and Dignitaries' gardens pay the small tythes to the Vicars, but the Dean's garden does not pay tithe. Bishops court, and the marshes belonging to the Bishop, are reckon'd as part of this parish. No tythe is paid out of Bishops court, nor out of the nearest marsh; but the other marshes, even while they were in the Bishop's occupation, in Bishop Michael Boyle's time, paid tythe. This parish extends to the western stone bridge, and so runs by the west end of the stone fort, up to the sign of the mitre; from thence to Gallow's Green and the spittle lands, and to Killindrindownagh lands, belonging to St. Dominick's Abby. Here some small fields, and a small street, which are in this parish, are not in the mannor of St. Barry's, but in the city. All the rest of this parish, together with severall other lands in several other parishes, belongs to the mannor of St. Barry's. The tyth belonging to the æconomy in this parish is worth about £40 per an. The tyth belonging to the Vicars Choral in this parish is worth about £30 per an. There was one mass-house in this parish—'tis now ruinous. No meeting-house in this parish. In St. Barry's parish 'tis thought there are two Papists for one Protestant. There are not above four or five families of Dissenting Protestants in this and the united parishes. The parishes of St. John, Rinnmahon, St. Stephen's, St. Nicholas, and St. Mary de Narde (where the King's stone fort stands) have been united time out of mind to this parish. Six shillings and eight pence was paid heretofore to the Bishop of Corke out of the spittle lands of St. Stephen's. Bishop Synge received it from John Fouracres, paiaible on Easter Munday. When Bishop Michael Boyle was here he liv'd in the city; the Bishop and Mayor used to go to St. Barry's Church together, but when they came to the middle of the eastern stone bridge, the Bishop took the right hand of the Mayor, and the sword and other ensigns were left in Alderman Field's house, at the foot of the bridge, till they returned from church. Captain Hayes saies he has seen this twenty times done. St. Dominick's Abby, Red Abby, or St. Augustine's Abby, and Gill Abby, are in the south suburbs of Corke's, and within the union of St. Barry's. The inhabitants come to St. Barry's Church, but they pay no tithes, neither out of the sites of the Abby, nor out of the lands belonging to them. The lands of the parish of St. Barry belong chiefly to the Bishop of Cork, the Earl of Cork, Dean Davys, Ignatius Gold (lately forfeited to the King), Captain Travers, Mr. Pigott, Alderman Charters, and Mr. Webber. Mr. Piggot, Alderman Chartres, Lieutenant Parker, and Collector Trench, live in this parish. Mr. Synge, &c., in the verge of the cathedral. There is a particular constable for the verge, chosen at the Court Leet of the Manor; there are two other constables in the mannor, chosen at the Quarter Sessions in the city. There is an alms-house in this union in St. Nicholas parish, near Southgate: a house, but no maintenance. Colman Sarsfield is Popish Priest of this and the united parishes. He has been here about four or five years. He has a mass-house near Red Abby. He was bred at Bordeaux, in France, in the Irish seminary, which is a small college, governed by a superior and prefect, subject to the visitation of the Archbishop of Bordeaux. The French King allows £200 per an. for the support of the college, wherein are maintained about twenty-four young Irish scholars, clergymen, or designed for clergymen. They are generally poor, and the college receives generally £200 per an. (besides the King's allowance) from private benefactors. These scholars usually go to the Jesuit's College to be instructed in philosophy and divinity. Sarsfield, the Priest of this parish, saies mass twice every Sunday morning, and the rest of the Priests in Ireland, by order from the Pope, have the privilege of saying two masses in one day, by reason of the great extent of most parishes or unions. Divine service is performed twice on Sundays, and once on the usual holidays, and also on all Wednesdays and Fridays; but the choir do not attend except on Sundays and Christmas Day. The sacrament is administered monthly; average of communicants, 51; and at Christmas and Easter; average 119. The children of the parish are instructed by the clergyman on one day of the week, as are also the school children. 32 boys (with an average attendance of 27); 27 girls (average attendance, 23); and 68 infants are on the rolls of the schools, which are supported by a small endowment, the collections at the cathedral on Sunday evenings, and by voluntary contributions. The Protestant population, inclusive of Frankfield district, is about 1,000.

At Frankfield (a chapel within this parish, served by the Curate and the Catechist of the cathedral alternately), there is divine service on all Sunday mornings. Sacrament monthly; average of communicants, 11; and at Christmas and Easter; average, 29. 17 children attend a Church Education school. The Protestant population of the district (including the Dean's household) is 124.

At St. Michael's (Blackrock), a Chapel of Ease to St. Finbarry's, there is also divine service twice on all Sundays, and once on the usual holidays, and on Wednesdays in Lent. Sacrament monthly and on festivals; average of communicants, 45. About 40 children attend a Church Education school. The Protestant population of this district is 640.

1863. A sum of money has been subscribed for the erection of a new cathedral on the old site. The plans have been chosen, and there is a fair prospect that Cork will soon possess a decent cathedral church, in which, it is to be hoped, the choral service will be used daily throughout the year.

Roberts was presented to the rectory of St. John of Jerusalem circa 1636, by King Charles I., who gave him a lease for 61 years, by patent dated 2nd July, 1638, of lands called Wasterfield and Terenure, als Ballinure, part of the late dissolved priory of St. John of Jerusalem. [Betham MSS.]

Roberts was afterwards Chancellor of Cork, q. v., He died in 1664.

1664. July 12. JOHN PARRY, D.D., is presented to the rectory of St. John of Jerusalem. [Lib. Mun.] He was son of Edward Parry, Bishop of Killaloe. John Parry was, in 1660, Treasurer of Christ Church, Dublin; in 1666, Dean of Christ Church; and in 1672 Bishop of Ossory.

1666. May 21. EDWARD SING is presented to the rectory of St. John of Jerusalem. [Lib. Mun.]

In 1667, St. John's is said to belong to Grany, and Edward Sing appears for it at visitation. If this Edward Synge was the same person who was afterwards Abp. of Tuam, he must have been a mere child when he obtained his patent.

1675. May 20. ROWLAND DAVIES is presented to the rectory of St. John of Jerusalem. [Lib. Mun.] In 1709 Davies was Dean of Cork, q. v.

1679. Dec. 15. By letters patent of this date the rectory of St. John of Jerusalem is granted to the Bishop of Cork, to maintain a Priest Vicar Choral in the Cathedral of St. Finbarry, Cork. [Lib. Mun.]

The patent states the reason of this grant as follows:—

I also give a translation of the foregoing :—

Charles the Second, by the grace of God, of England, Scotland, France, and Ireland, King, defender of the faith, and soforth. To all to whom these, our present letters, shall come, greeting.

Whereas, We understand that the inhabitants of the parish of St. John, near our city of Cork, and lying in the county of the said city, in our Kingdom of Ireland, were since the memory of man dependent, and still are dependent, upon the Cathedral Church of St. Finbarry, of Cork, for all pastoral offices, and thence enjoy them; and being informed that from our happy restoration the said Cathedral Church has been destitute of all choral service, from want of a fitting endowment; and, moreover, understanding that the said rectory of St. John is now vacant, and appertaining and belonging to our gift and free disposition (by our full right and patronage).

Know ye, therefore, that We, of our especial grace, certain knowledge, and mere motion, by and with the assent and consent of our well-beloved and faithful cousin and counsellor, James, Duke of Ormond, our Lieutenant-General and General Governor of our Kingdom of Ireland, and also according to the term and effect of certain letters signed with our own hand, and sealed with our seal, at our Court of Whitehall, the twenty-seventh day of October, in the thirty-first year of our reign, and in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and seventy-nine, and now enrolled in the Rolls of our Chancery of our said Kingdom of Ireland, We have given, granted, and conferred, and by these presents We do give, grant, and confer on our well-beloved in Christ, our rev. father in Christ, Edward, Bishop of Cork and Ross, and his successors, Bishops of Cork, the said entire rectory of St. John, near Cork, together with all and all kind of land, tenements, debts, profits, tithes, commodities, jurisdictions, and emoluments whatsoever, as well spiritual as temporal, to the said entire rectory of St. John, near Cork, in any manner appertaining and belonging.

To have and to hold the said entire rectory of St. John, near Cork, with all its rights, members, and appurtenances whatsoever, to the said Edward, Bishop of Cork and Ross, and his successors, Bishops of Cork, for ever, for and to the use and support of one Priest Vicar Choral, who shall catechise the children of the Parish of St. John aforesaid in the midst of the Cathedral Church of St. Finbarry, of Cork, according to the laws of the Church of England. And, moreover, for the support of one lay Vicar Choral, and so many singers or choristers as the rents of the said rectory extend to, and that every of them shall daily officiate in the said cathedral or choir of Saint Finbarry, according to the choral usage of the Church of Ireland.

Returning thereout to us, our heirs and successors, to wit, at the hands of our Vice-Treasurer or General Receiver of us, our heirs and successors of our said Kingdom of Ireland for the time being, at the receipt of the Exchequer of us, our heirs and successors of our said Kingdom of Ireland, so much and such rents, reservations, and offices as now are paid for the same. To be paid at the feasts of Easter and Saint Michael the Archangel, by equal portions, yearly, from and immediately after the said entire rectory shall come into the possession of Edward, Bishop of Cork and Ross, or his successors, Bishops of Cork.

Provided always, and firmly enjoining, We command that the said Edward, Bishop of Cork and Ross, shall enrol, or cause to be enrolled, these our letters patent in our High Court of Chancery in our said Kingdom of Ireland, within six months next after the date of these our letters patent, although, and so forth. Any statute, and so forth.

In witness whereof We have caused these our letters to be made patent. Witness our said Lieutenant-General and General Governor of our said Kingdom of Ireland, at Dublin, the fifteenth day of December, in the thirty-first year of our reign.

Enrolled on the twenty-first day of December, in the thirty-first year of the reign of King Charles the Second.

"1700. St. John's Church stood to the east of Red Abby; it is ruinous, and has been so for eighty years. Several parcels of glebe, some in the north suburbs of Corke, belong to this parish, and all the tithes of this parish, which was formerly the possession of the priory of St. John of Jerusalem. They were lately given by the King for the maintenance of the quire of St. Barry's. There was formerly a house near the church, where they entertained the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, in their travels. Mr. Thomas Roberts heretofore held this priory by lease from the Crown during his life, after him Mr. Parry, and then Mr. Edward Synge, enjoy'd it during Mr. Parry's life. Upon Parry's death Dr. Wetenhall, Bishop of Corke, got the King's patent appropriating it to the quire, paying the former rent reserved. The glebe and tythes are worth about —. The people of this parish go to St. Barry's Church. The parish has been supposed to be united to St. Barry's, ever since the dissolution of the priory. The churchwardens of St. Barry's serve for this and the adjacent parishes, and also for the three Abbys in the south suburbs."

"An. 1702. A little beyond Red Abby, to the east, stood St. John's Church, the side walls are standing, but the gable ends are down. They bury sometimes in the church; but there are no signs of the bounds of the church-yard, as there are gardens all round the church. Betwixt Red Abby and St. John's Church is the mass-house, a long cabin, that will contain about 400 persons. St. John's Church and parish belong'd to the knights of St. John of Jerusalem. Upon the dissolution of that order it came to the Crown, and was leased from the Crown in Charles the First's time. The lease being expired, Mr. Roberts (Clerk) got a presentation of it from the Crown, and it has been ever since in the possession of the church. About the year 1664, Mr. Edward Synge had the intire rectory of St. John of Jerusalem. About the year 1694, Mr. Rowland Davys got a presentation of it from the Crown, as being vacant; but Bishop Synge compounded with Mr. Davys, and gave him some other livings, and kept St. John's for his son. Upon Bishop Synge's death, Bishop Wetenhal coming to the see got a patent from the Crown, appropriating the parish of St. John's to the use of the quire of St. Finbarry's.

"1704. Red Abby, in the south suburbs of Corke, belong'd to the monks of St. Augustine. Some gardens and houses near the Abby belong'd to it, and a small piece of ground and mill, call'd Ballivricks, near Douglas, belonged to the Abby. This Abby, with the lands, &c., belonging to it, is the estate of my Lord Primate Boyle. The lands of this and the other Abbys pay no tithes. This Abby is said to be in St. John's parish." [Downes' Tour.]

1860. Without reference to the chapter books of the cathedral, which have not latterly been accessible to inquirers, it is impossible to trace the uses to which the revenues of St. John have been applied. It may, however, be fairly presumed that they have been appropriated always to the maintenance of the Choir, or of the Curate, or Reader, at the cathedral. The present Reader, Rev. I. M. Reeves, was appointed by the Bishop of Cork, in 1850, to the Vicarage of St. John of Jerusalem; but it does not appear that he is either the Priest Vicar Choral, whose duty was to catechise in medio ecclesiæ, or the lay Vicar Choral, who was to attend daily to the choral service in the cathedral, under the patent of CHARLES II.

Isaac Morgan Reeves (eldest son of T. S. Reeves, esq., vide CAHERAGH, Rev. James S. Reeves) was educated at T.C.D., where he obtained a Senior Moderatorship in Ethics and Logics in 1841. He graduated B.A. in 1842, and M.A. in 1853.

He was ordained Deacon at Kilkenny, by the Bishop of Ossory, on 21st Dec. 1844, and Priest at Cavan, by the Bishop of Kilmore, on letters dimissory from Cork.

In 1844 he was Curate of Douglas, in the parish of Carrigaline, to which he was licensed on 29th May, 1847. His licence was transferred from Carrigaline to the Holy Trinity on 3rd July, 1850. He was, in the latter year, appointed by the Dean of Cork to the curacy of St. Finbar's, and at the same time to the Vicarage of St. John of Jerusalem by the Bishop. In February, 1858, having resigned the curacy of St. Finbar's, he was appointed by the Bishop to be also Reader in the Cathedral.

He married Anna-Maria-Toke (dau. of Rev. Henry Bouchier Wrey, R. Tawstock, Devon, and granddaughter of SIR BOUTCHIER WREY), by whom he has issue a daughter, Helen-Wrey, born 26th October, 1860.

This Abby, with the lands belonging to it, is the estate of the Earl of Orrery. This Abby is said to be in Shandon parish."

"May, 1700. St. Francis's Abby is on the north side of the Lee, in the north suburbs of Cork. The site of it contains a few gardens on the side of the hill near the Abby. It is the estate of the Lord Orrery, and before the late troubles was held and inhabited by Mr. Rogers, Thomas Cooke, and others. In King James's time, a new chappel was built by the Friars on part of the Abby, but not where the former chappel stood. Some Friars lived there. In the time of the siege, the Abby, with the rest of the suburbs, was burnt. A good strong steeple remains standing. The chappel that was lately built, having been burnt with the Abby, was repaired by Mr. Morrison, a merchant, and is now used by him as a warehouse."

"1702. The hospital in Shandon parish.—One Stephen Skiddy long since settled twenty-four pounds per annum (payable by the Company of Vintners in London, out of certain houses in that city) upon the Mayor and Corporation of Corke, to be bestowed by them upon ten poor people, which they accordingly did. The said annuity of 24 li. per an. was duly paid to the year 1644; and what was farther due to the year 1660, Sir Robert Coppinger, the last Papist Mayor, got into his hands, and never accounted for it.

"From the year 1660, or soon after, the said annuity was paid into the hands of Christopher Rye, Alderman of the city of Corke, a third part being for some years defalkt on account of the fire of London. The said Alderman Rye, upon his account with the city a little before his death, appeared to have disburs'd about eighty pounds of this said mony (so received by him) for the use of the Corporation, and to have besides remaining in his hands 114 li., for which he offer'd his bond, which, by neglect, was never taken. And the said Rye's executors having no assets remaining, and his heir deriving under a settlement, the said 114 li. is irrecoverably lost. From the death of Alderman Rye the said annuity was received by Robert Rogers, Alderman of the said city of Corke, who, out of it, has rebuilt the said house for the said ten poor people (which was fallen down), and fairly accounted with the city. From the time that the said house has been rebuilt, the said money, as it comes in, is applied to the use intended by the donor."

"An. 1702. This hospital is sufficient for the reception of twenty poor people. There are in it at present, of old men and women, sixteen. Eight of these have tenpence weekly, besides their lodgings, the other eight have nothing besides lodging."

"In Shandon parish is Bretridges Hospital, joyning to the fore-mentioned hospital. Captaiu Bretridge, about the year 1678, by will, settled some lands in the barony of Duhallo, for the maintenance of seven poor Protestants of the Church of England. Each of them to have eighteen pence a week and twenty shillings apiece on St. Simon's and St. Jude's day, yearly, for clothing. And if there be any overplus, it is to be laid out in putting out as apprentices, poor boys of the city of Corke. The lands were heretofore set for 36 li. per annum.

"An. 1702. There are now but five poor men in the hospital, the rent of the lands not being sufficient for the whole number. The Mayor, Recorder, and Sheriffs of Corke, are governors of the hospital. Mr. Hartstonge, the grandson of Capt. Bretridge, is to nominate the poor men during his life, afterwards the Mayor and Sheriff of Corke, and the Minister of Shandon, are to nominate them." [Downes' Tour.]

1706/7. April 5. HENRY MAULE, R. V. St. Mary, Shandon. [F.F.]

1713. Two large flagons, weighing respectively 72 oz. 12 dwts., and 71 oz. 11 dwts., are inscribed "Deo DD Rector et Parochiani Ecclesiæ Stæ Mariæ de Shandon in Civitat. Corcag. et in usum Eccles. prædict. 24 Decembris, 1713."

1715. A large silver cup, weighing 23 oz., bears the monogram I.H.S., surrounded by a nimbus or glory, and is inscribed "Deo DD Et in usum Eccles. Paroch. Stæ Mariæ de Shandon in Civitat. Corcagiens. et Diocesi prædict. April 26, An. Dom. 1715. Quid retribuam Domino." A paten, weighing 12 oz. 5 dwts., has the same inscription and date; and a larger paten or alms-basin, weighing about 26 oz., has the same inscription and date.

1720. Dr. Maule, in a petition to the Primate, states that he is Rector of St. Mary, Shandon, worth £300; of Mourne Abbey, worth £90; and also was lately presented to ye deanery of Cloyne, worth £60 per an., which he can't hold without a faculty. #### ST. NICHOLAS, CHANCELLORS.

Notices of St. Bridget (the ancient corps of the Chancellorship), of St. John, St. Stephen, St. Mary de Narde, St. Dominick, and St. Magdalene, are given under this parish of St. Nicholas.

"The Church of Narde was anciently possessed by Gill-Abbey. Anno 1270, the parish of Narde was granted to Reginald, Bishop of Cork, by Prince Edward, then Lord of Ireland, by donation from his father, King Henry III., for the relief and amendment of the state of the Church of Cork, as the record saith; as also the Chapel of St. Peter, at Cork, to hold in frank almoigne. Dated 20th of May, that year. But A.D. 1299, King Edward I. recovered against Robert, Bishop of Cork, by writ of right of advowson, the patronages of the same churches, viz., St. Mary, of Narde, in the suburbs of Cork; the Church of Kilmanock, Nochynvall, and that of St. Peter's, of Dungarvan, in the suburbs of that city. The Bishop's defence as to the advowson of St. Mary, of Narde, Kilmanock, and St. Peter's, was through the above-named grant. But judgment was given against him, because King Edward, when he made the grant, had no right to the said advowson, his father, King Henry, being then alive, and the Prince having at that time nothing in Ireland but by his father's gift, which shows that the Prince was no other than a Viceroy or Lord Lieutenant. As to the Church of Nochynvall, judgment was given against the Bishop by default." [Smith's Cork, vol. i. p. 65, &c.]

 1571. JAMES MARTELL. "Institutus ad Cancellar. 1571 ordinatus anno 1581." He appears as Chancellor in 1591, with this remark, "delib. sup. dispensis. ltris."; (which is, I suppose, a contraction for "deliberandum super dispensationis litteris ordinum." St. Bridget, in this year, is thus noticed: "E. Scē Brigide spectat ad Cancellarium." In another part of same MSS. it is styled, "Prebend Scē brigide." [MS. T.C.D. E. 3. 14.]

John Martell appears in 1591 as V. Clonmell and Temple-robin, in Cloyne, and as Vicar Choral of Cork. He died 1610.

1661. THOMAS ROBERTS appears as Chancellor. [V.B. D.R.]

Thomas Roberts (born 1599, died 1664) was the first of the family of Roberts, of Glastonbury, who settled in Ireland. [Betham MSS.]

In 1636 he was granted by Charles I. the rectory of St. John of Jerusalem.

From 1637 to 1640 he was P. Coole, Cloyne; from 1639 to 1664 he was Rector of St. Nicholas. From 1640 to 1661 he was P. Inskenny, and from 1641 to 1664 P. Donoghmore, Cloyne. From 1661 he was also Chancellor of Cork, and from 1663 Vicar of Whitechurch, Cloyne, until his death in 1664.

Roberts was twice married. By his first wife, Elisabeth, he had one son, Francis, born in 1642, who entered T.C.D. as a Fellow Commoner when nineteen years old, on 6th July, 1661, and who was a J.P. for Cork county in 1666. To Francis Roberts the lands of Britfieldstown, in that county, were granted under the Act of Settlement. The Chancellor married, secondly, Dorothy, daughter of Richard Boyle, Archbishop of Tuam, by whom he had three sons. She had been previously married to Capt. Greenfield Halse, and also to Henry Turner. A member of this family was, in 1809, created a Baronet. The Chancellor died in 1664. [Fisher.] Michael and William Roberts, both Fellows of Trinity College, Dublin, are descendants of Chancellor Roberts.

"1700. St. Bridget's Church stood where the fort called the Cat is now built, on the south side of the Cat. There is no appearance of the ruins of the church. The ruins did appear before the last war. This parish contains the place where the barracks are built, and the houses on the south and east of the barracks to the Spittle lands and St. Nicholas parish. The plowlands Maglin and part of Curriheen, near Kerrigrohau, pay all their tythes to the Chancellor of St. Barry, as belonging to this parish, of which the Chancellor has the intire rectory. No glebe in this parish. The whole tythe of this parish is worth about £8 per an., and belongs to the Chancellor of St. Barry's. The people of this parish go to St. Barry's. The Lord Romney has an old estate in this parish, and Counsellor Welsh. More than half of the people in this parish are conforming Protestants."

"St. Nicholas Church stood to the west of Red Abby; it has been ruinous time out of mind. It is supposed to be united to St. Barry's. The church-yard is inclosed, but there is a way through it. Some houses, viz., Piper's holding, &c., near the church-yard, belong to this parish. The houses, glebe, and all the tythes of this parish belong'd formerly to the priory of St. John of Jerusalem, now to the quire of St. Barry's."

"St. Mary's de Narde Church stood in the place where the King's stone fort now stands, the ruins of it do not remain. The stone fort was built in Queen Elizabeth's time, and was raised higher by Cromwell. The west side of the street coming from the south bridge and up to the mitre, and also the north side of the fort belong to this parish. There is no distinct Constable in this parish, nor in St. Nicholas. There are two Constables for St. Nicholas, St. John's, &c., in the south suburbs, within the city jurisdictions. No glebe belongs to this parish, nor tythes, except the tythes of some gardens, which are worth little or nothing. The tythe belongs to the Vicars Choral of St. Barry's. There is no valuation of the houses in this parish, nor in St. Nicholas, nor the adjacent parishes, for the support of the Ministers. No churchwardens here."

"St. Stephen's Church stood where the new hospital is now building. No ruins of the church appear. This parish contained half a plowland. This half plowland belonged to the Lepers' Old Hospital of St. Stephen's. This plowland was set lately for £150 per an. The tythe of these lands belong'd also to the hospital, it was set for £10 per an. Three plowlands on the north side of the river Lee, called Ballineboght, belong'd to this hospital. These lands are in Shandon parish, and are worth about £120 per an. Several houses are built in this parish of St. Stephen's; the people go to St. Barry's. This parish is said to be united to St. Barry as the other parishes are. The Bishop of Corke formerly received six shillings and eight pence yearly out of these lands, or tythes, either as a chiefry or as proxeys. John Foreacres paid it to Bishop Synge. There was formerly a prior of St. Stephen's."

"1702. St. Nicholas Church stood above Mr. Morrison's house, in the street going to Red Abby. The walls are standing, and there is a good church-yard belonging to it, on the south side of the church. In the street going to the Red Abby is an almshouse, built by the father of Mr. Ronan, of Ronans-court, and by him settled on such poor as his heir shall place in it. The heir is to repair it. It is a good stone house, four rooms on a floor; twelve in all; there are about twenty persons in it at present, of which three are men, the rest women. Before Mr. Ronan was restored to his estate, and since the late troubles, a Protestant had the disposal of the house, under, as I suppose, the Lord Romney, who fill'd it with Protestant poor; but Mr. Ronan being restored to his estate about two years ago, he has ever since, as the Protestants died, fill'd their places with Popish poor. There are now about six Protestants, widows; and fourteen Papists, in the house. The poor have no allowance, except their house-room, except those Protestants in it that are on the church-book in St. Barry's, who have seldom above twelve pence apiece per week, and about 1s. 6d. per quarter out of Smart's legacy."

"1702. St. Stephen's Church stood where North's Blew-coat Hospital now stands. The south side of the Hospital-court wall stands upon the foundation of the north side of the church. There is no sign of a church-yard." [Downes' Tour.]

"1720. The church of St. Nicholas, pursuant to the Act of Parliament for the union and division of parishes, was begun to be erected on the 19th of January, 1720, a church being wanted in the south part of the city by the increase of the Protestant inhabitants. This work was chiefly promoted by Bishop Brown, and by the joint and cheerful contribution of other well-disposed persons, by whose assistance it was completed in 1723, and the first sermon preached therein on the 1st of September, by Archdeacon Eyre. It is a small, neat church; has a pretty gallery on the W. end, and is well pewed. The altarpiece and pulpit are well carved, and adorned with fluted columns of the Corinthian order. The Incumbent is supported by a voluntary subscription of the inhabitants. Here is early service and sacrament every fourth Sunday of the month." [Smith's Cork, vol. i. p. 380.]

The Act (25th Geo. George Webster (son of Michael Webster, esq.) was born in Dublin, and when sixteen years old matriculated as a Pensioner in T.C.D., on 3rd May, 1847. He graduated A.B. in 1852, and A.M. in 1856.

He was ordained Deacon, at Dublin, on 25th Sept., 1853, and Priest, at Killaloe, in September, 1854. He was, in 1853, Curate of Castlemacadam, county Wicklow; in 1854 junior, and in 1856 senior Curate of Donnybrook, Dublin. In 1857 he was appointed domestic Chaplain to the Bishop of Cork, and Preacher and Librarian at Cork Cathedral.

He married, on 7th May, 1859, Gertrude-Adeline, the only daughter of the late William St. John Smyth, Chancellor of Down, R. Ballymoney, and private Chaplain to Bishop Mant. He has issue by her, two sons, Reginald-Godfrey-Michael, and George-Arthur, and a daughter, Blanch-Eveline.

Mrs. Webster died on 21st Nov., 1862, and was buried in the vaults of St. Nicholas' Church, where a stained glass window (for which already £100 has been subscribed) will be placed to perpetuate her memory.

Mr. Webster is domestic Chaplain to Dr. Fitzgerald, Bishop of Killaloe.

He has published—1. Notes of Lectures on the New Testament. 8vo. Parker and Bourne, London. 2. Witness of the Spirit. 3. Amusements—A Lecture, &c. 4. The Importance of Studying the Evidences of Christianity. 5. Why are Sponsors appointed? 6. Spiritual Organizations. 7. The Scripture Doctrine of Election. 8. The Scripture Doctrine of Imputed Righteousness. 9. The Scripture Doctrine of the Sovereignty of God. 10. The Scripture Doctrine of Perseverance. 11. The Scripture Doctrine of Sober-mindedness. 12. The Scripture Doctrine of Regeneration. Almost all the above works were published by Messrs. Hodges and Smith, Dublin. The last six are tracts, which have had an extensive circulation, and to which about twenty answers were published by various writers.

1862. The variance between the gross and net value of this benefice, as set down in the Irish Church Directory, requires explanation. The apparent value of St. Nicholas in 1862 was £432 4s. 4d., arising from £358 18s. 8d. minister's money, £63 5s. 8d. rents and rentcharges, and £10 surplice fees. His actual payments to two Curates and for house-rent were £204 8s. His apparent income would, therefore, be the difference between £432 4s. 4d. and £204 8s., namely, £227 16s. 4d. Instead of this the actual income of the Chancellor was much more, in consequence of a clause in the recent Act of Parliament, by which the Ecclesiastical Commissioners are obliged to pay, in addition, to the Incumbents of all parishes receiving minister's money, an allowance of 25 per cent. on all the items of necessary expenditure, such as house-rents, stipends to Curates, &c., &c.

For instance, in 1862, the Chancellor received as follows:—

Minister's money,	£358	18	8
Rents and rentcharges,	63	5	8
Surplice fees,	10	0	0
Allowance of 25 per cent. on £211
15s. 1d., necessary expenditure,	52	18	8
Total income,	£485	3	0

His expenditure in same year was—

For stipend of two Curates, at £75
per an. (income tax deducted),	£144	8	0
House rent,	60	0	0
Income tax on minister's money,	13	9	4
Income tax on allowance of 25 per cent.,	1	19	8
Poor-rate and income tax on rents
and rentcharges,	8	12	1
Expenses of collection of rents, &c.,	5	9	6
Total expenditure,	£233	18	7

Total income,	£485	3	0
Total expenditure,	233	18	7

Net value in 1862, . . . 251 4 5

The Chancellor is also Chaplain of the poorhouse, for which he receives £60 per annum.

His real income in 1862 from all sources, after the above expenditure, was £311 4s. 5d.

It is to be remarked, that in all parishes receiving minister's money a Curate whose stipend is £100 per annum costs the Rector but £75 per an. ; or a Curate at £75 costs the Rector but £56 5s. It is also to be noted that the true value of any benefice which is entitled to minister's money varies with the poor-rate, or income tax, or as often as any change takes place in the items of necessary expenditure, or in the number of Curates employed.

The income of the chancellorship may in future years be increased by an addition of nearly £300 per annum, if there be no renewals granted to the present tenants of their holdings. The previous Chancellors took fines, and renewed leases at a merely nominal rent.

"The church of St. Paul was built by a subscription of the parishioners; the ground on which it stands was granted by the Corporation to the late Bishop Brown, May 14, 1723; and divine service was, for the first time, celebrated therein by the Rev. Edward Sampson, October the 9th, 1726. By an Act for the union and division of parishes, &c., the East Marsh, belonging to St. Mary, Shandon, and Dunscomb's Marsh, in the parish of Christ Church, were, by the consent of the respective Incumbents, made one entire parish, called the parish of St. Paul, which, by a valuation on houses, affords a suitable maintenance for an Incumbent." Archdeacon Philip Gold was married to Helena, sister to Patrick Sarsfield, as appears by a curious document now among the Roche MSS. in the Brit. Museum, which purports to be a certificate from John Copinger, Priest, s.t.b., formerly of Acquittain, who acts by virtue of a faculty from "Reverendissimo patre Christophero Hollenodio, Soc. Jes. in Hib." Copinger grants a dispensation to Dr. Philip Goulde and Helena Sarsfield, who after many years intermarriage find that they were consanguineous in third and fourth degree. This dispensation or certificate was granted by Copinger, "non plus in favorem Helenæ quæ semper in Catholica fide perseverabit sed et in favorem Philippi qui licet beneficia ecclesiastica ab hereticis obtentia possideat et teneat, tum pro viribus catholicam fidem fovebat et catholicis ubique fovebat et favit, qui juxta sacram scripturam boni et honesti viri omen et nomen obtinet, qui potuit facere malum et non fecit," &c.

Archdeacon Gold was also custodian of the church plate of St. Finbarry's, as Vicar Choral; and on 8th September, 1587, signs an acknowledgment of having received "of my brethorne, thother three Vicars of the said St. Barry's, one old senser of silver, not gilt, two challices, with their pattenes, duble gilt, and one pix, duble gilt, all belonging to the said church, and comytted to my kepinge to thuse of the same, and taken for that p'pose oute of the hands of Sir Roger Skiddy, Preste, now Warden of Youghal, who had the kepinge of the same afore me the said Philip." On the 9th January, 1612, Mrs. Ellen Gold, the Archdeacon's widow, gives up the above plate to some person whose name is illegible, who also signs a paper stating that he has received them to the use of the cathedral church. [Roche MSS. Brit. Mus.]

Mrs. Ellen Gold, the widow, also gives up in due form to John Travers, the Registrar, "the booke of laste wills and testaments, containing in it thirty-four leaves and seaven lines, wrytten" on the 9th January, 1612, in presence of her brother Patrick Sarsfield, and others. [Cork Reg.]

He tooke to wife Ellinor, daughter of Randall Maynwarring, sonne of John Maynwarring, second sonne of Sir Randall Maynwarring, of Peever, in Cheshire, in the said Kingdome of England, Knight, and relict of William Gunn, of Limerick, Parson, by whome the said Lord Bishop had no issue. The said Lord Bishop departed this mortal life at Ardfert, the 21st of January, 1637, and was interred in the Cathedral Church of Ardfert aforesaid. The truth of the premises is testified by the subscription of the said Ellinor, relict and executrix of the said Lord Bishop, whoe hath returned this certificat into my office, to be there recorded. Taken by me, Thomas Preston, esquire, Uluester King of Arms, the 23rd of May, 1638." [Funeral Entries, Ulster Office, vol. 7, p. 284.]

1641. August 17. MARTIN TYNLY is presented to the archdeaconry of Cork. [Lib. Mun.]

In 1640 the name of the Archdeacon of Stafford, diocese of Lichfield, was Martin Tinley. [Le Neve's Fasti.]

Martin Tynly was, in 1638, Treasurer of Dromore; in 1640 Archdeacon of Stafford, dioc. Lichfield, and in 1641 Archdeacon of Cork. In 1642 he was Vicar of Paulswalden, Herts.

He married, Frances, daughter of Bazill Smith, who was Clerk of the parish of St. Andrew, Holborn, in London. He had issue by her, Martin, born in 1638, died same year; Frances, born at Lisneygarvey, county Antrim, where her father was Parson; Elizabeth, also born at Lisneygarvy, in 1641, and buried at Marresbie Church, in Cumberland, near Whitehaven, on 4th January, 1641; and Anne, born 9th December, 1642, at Paulswalden, Herts, where her father was Vicar. To Archdeacon Tinly, in 1645, on 21st March, was born another son, Martin, "born at Bazill Smith's house, in St. Andrew's Court, against the church."

The Archdeacon's death and burial is thus recorded:—"Martin Tynly, Clarke, sometime Archdeacon of Stafford, and late Archdeacon of Corke, died in Bazill Smith's house, his father-in-law, Clk of this parish, 31st Jan., buried 2nd Feb., 1646." [Extracts from the parish Register of St. Andrew, Holborn, furnished by Archdeacon Cotton.]

1662. July 5. BERNARD PACKINGTON, D.D., Archdeacon of Cork [F.F.] per mortem Martini Tinley. [D.R.]

R. Sti Petri Corke pticula et membrum Archidiaconatus Corkag. [V.B. 1669.] Rectoria de Dunbullog similiter. [Ib.] R. de Dunusque similiter. [Ib.]

1666. Sept. 28. A grant is made under the Act of Settlement to Packington and his successors, ministers of St. Peter's, of "a back house, and another back house and garden to the wall in Dominick Terry's lane, in Cork, at 19s. 6d. rent. [Records of Ireland.]

Bernard Packington, A.M., resigned on 9th Nov., 1660, his vicarage of Cheswicke, in county of Middlesex, and diocese of London. [MS. Consistorial Office, Dublin.] In 1661 he was a D.D. and R. Bruhenny, in Cloyne; in 1662 Archdeacon of Cork; in 1663 V. Aglish, Kilbonane, and Moviddy; in 1664 V. Whitechurch, Cloyne, and in 1667 V. Kilcully. He held all these livings (except Bruhenny) until his death in 1674.

He married Rebecca Exham, and by her left issue two sons, William (Lieut. in the Army), and Bernard, besides a daughter, who married Lieut. Theophilus Carey, and bore to him Richard, Susannah, and Elisabeth Carey.

Dr. Packington, in his will, "professes to dye a true sonne of the Church of England, according to the primitive constitution, suitable to the precepts of Christ and his holy Apostles." He wishes to be buried in St. Peter's Church, "within the rayle, in a tombe there, on the south side of the communion table." He gives £5 towards the enlarging of the quire and chappell of St. Finbarries, and £5 towards hanging up the bells in the steeple now begun at St. flinbarries. He gives also ten shillings worth of bread to the prisoners in the north-east of Cork, and ten shillings to those in the south-east of Cork.

The Archdeacon died in May, 1674, and was buried at St. Peter's. His relict, Rebecca, makes her will, and dies in 1683. She mentions her nephews, John Exham, in Leighlinbridge, in the county of Catherlogh, gentleman, and Nathaniel Exham, his brother; also other nephews, John, of Charleville, and Joseph, of Cork, sons to her brother Henry, deceased. She was buried near her husband, in St. Peter's.

The arms of Packington are, "part per chevron, in base three garbs, in chief three mullets (spur rowels), the crest a garb." Dr. Packington was probably a near relative of SIR JOHN PACKINGTON, Baronet, who fought at the battle of Worcester, on the side of King CHARLES II.

1674. May 27. RICHARD SYNGE is admitted Archdeacon of Cork, and Vicar of Moviddy, Kilbonane, Aglish, Kilcullie, and V. Whitechurch, in Cloyne diocese. [F.F.]

Richard Synge, son of George, Bishop of Cloyne, was born in Dublin, in 1646, and was educated at Cloyne, by Mr. Goffe. He entered T.C.D. as Pensioner, on 9th June, 1662, being then sixteen years old. He was nephew to Edward Synge, who was Bishop of Cork, Cloyne, and Ross 1663 to 1679.

From 1669 to 1674 he was P. Kilbrogan, Cork, and R. V. Aglinagh, Kilcoleman, and Agabulloge, in Cloyne. From 1671 to 1674 he was also Chancellor of Ross. From 1674 to his death in 1688 he was Archdeacon of Cork, and Vicar of the five parishes mentioned above in his titles to the arch-deaconry.

He was, on 4th March, 1680, appointed to the commission of the peace for Cork county.

He married Elisabeth, whom I suppose to have been Miss Elisabeth Clarke (relict of William O'Connor, esq.), who is mentioned in Burke's L. G., edition of 1840, vol. ii., p. 1346, as having been married in 1671 to Rev. Richard Synge—there said, erroneously (I think) to be a son of Bishop Edward Synge. Richard Synge, however, in his will (dated 1686) calls his wife Elisabeth, the dear companion of his youth, and leaves to her for her life his house and lands near Bridgnorth, county Salop, and his house, in Bandon, then leased to his brother George, P. Kilbrogan, q. v. After his wife's death he leaves the said property to his son Richard, to whom he leaves £30 per an. for his maintenance at College.

He mentions also his son-in-law, Rev. William Denny, V. Whitechurch, Cloyne, q. v., and his daughter Letitia, to whom he leaves £500, and who was afterwards wife to Dr. Nicholas Brady, P. Kilnaglorry, q. v. Archdeacon Synge's son, Richard, is, I think, the same person who, on 23rd Sept., 1694, was ordained Deacon at Cork, although a literate, and who was, on 20th March, 1696, ordained Priest at Cork.

1688. October 31. RICHARD LAPP, A.M., Archdeacon. [F.F.] The corps of the Archdeaconry in 1688 was "E. Kilmonoge, Dunisky, Naoffoild, et Vic. Donbullog seu decimæ quatuor carrucat. de Carrnavarr in parochia de Dunbullog ex antiquo unitæ una cum Rect. de Dunbullog per ltras patentes Dni Regis eidem vicariæ seu decimis de Carrnavarr." N.B. This vicarage of Dunbullog was not in V.B., but was inserted in the title, by order of the Bishop, who found it elsewhere. [D.R.]

Lapp appears as Archdeacon from 1688 to 1690. [V.B. D.R.]

Richard Lapp, son of Thomas Lapp, "Mercatoris," was born at Bandon, and entered T.C.D. as a Pensioner, on 13th May, 1674, being then sixteen years old. [T.C.R.]

He was, from 1682 to 1686, V. Kinsale; from 1685 to 1690 P. Templebryan, and V. Templequinlan, in Ross, and R. V. Rathclarin. He was, from 1687 to 1688, Treasurer of Cork; and from 1688 to 1690 Archdeacon of Cork.

- 1691 to 1696. The Archdeaconry was held in commendam by Bishop EDWARD WETENHALL. [V.B. D.R.]

Before 1691 there is no mention of churchwardens or parish clerk for St. Peter's. In 1694 two churchwardens appear; and in 1695 Mr. Daniel Smith is Curate, succeeded by Cornelius Hignet, in 1696, who "non extraxit litteras curatiæ." [V.B. D.R. 1691-1696.]

1697. April 23. JOHN WETENHALL is admitted Archdeacon, per cessionem et desertionem Rendi in Christo Patris Edwardi Ep'i Corkag. &c. ultimi incumbentis vacant. [D.R.] On 14th August he received also the Vicarages of Moviddy, Kilbonane, and Aglish.

1699. Dunbullog spectat ad Archid. No churchwardens nor parish clerk. [V.B. D.R.] In 1704 Jac Kean est clericus parochialis de Dunbullog. [V.B.] Dunbullog, in 1699, has no churchwarden, no parish clerk, and but one Protestant, who goes to Moviddy. [V.B. D.R.]

"Oct. 1700. I saw Dunbullog church, which was built with stone and lime. The walls are standing for the most part; the church is about 60 foot long; a partition wall runs through the middle of it, without any arch. There is a church-yard, about an acre, with a ditch about it. About 3 English acres of glebe, on the east side of the church, belongs to the Archdeacon. The ditch which bounds the glebe on the north side is broken down. The greatest part of this parish lies north of the church. About five plowlands are in this parish; the tythes are worth about £23 per an. To the east of Dunbullog church is the church of St. Michael, at about half a mile's distance. About a mile to the east of St. Michael's church is the church of Templeusky. Sir St. John Brodrick and Mr. Piggot have the greatest part of this parish. Redmund Barry (Papist), Thomas May, and — Smith, Protestants, live in this parish, in which there are no more Protestants. The people of this parish go to Corke to church. Peter Murrogh is Popish Priest of this parish, and Kilcully, &c. He was tried at the assizes at Corke, about 1698, as being Vicar-General of the diocese of Corke. He pleaded that the Popish Bishop had some time ago displac'd him, and so he was acquitted. All the tythes of this parish belong to the Archdeaconry of Corke." [Downes' Tour.]

"1702. In St. Peter's parish there is an alms-house (in St. Peter's-lane, near the steeple), which was rebuilt not long since, when Mr. Browne, the town clerke, was churchwarden of St. Peter's, at the expence of 40 or 50 pounds, which he laid out for the parish, and afterwards forgave it, with the interest. There are 4 rooms in it, sufficient for 8 people. There are now in it but 6, viz., 2 men and 4 women, who receive 12*d.* per week from the churchwardens of St. Peter's. Besides the weekly collections in the church, there is £4 per annum paid out of 2 new houses, not far from the church, being the gift of Captain Bretridge, and also the interest of £40, at the rate of 8 per cent., charged by Mr. Browne, town clerk, on some houses on the East Marsh (he having received the said £40 from the parish), for the relief of the poor of the parish of St. Peter's. Captain Bretridge gave also 20*s.* yearly for a sermon on St. Simon's and St. Jude's Day in St. Peter's church, out of the above said houses. The £40 above mentioned was given by Alderman Newenham to the parish for the poor. The Minister of St. Peter's has a house in a lane, on the east side of the street, in Christchurch parish, but not far from St. Peter's church. This house was assigned to the Minister according to the Act of Settlement. 'Tis divided into 2 tenements, one of which is held by Dr. Barry at nine pounds per annum rent. The south side of the house hangs over. The timber in the upper part, I fear, is decaying. A weaver lives in the other tenement; 'tis less than Dr. Barry's. The weaver paies £12 per annum. The Archdeacon is obliged by his lease to repair the houses for the tenants."

"In St. Peter's parish, in a lane, near the wall, is a meeting-house of the Presbyterians. It is a large room; the seats and galleries will hold about 400 people. In the same parish, in another lane, near the water, is the Quaker's meeting-house, a neat room; the benches and galleries will hold about 200 people. Adjoining to it is a large room, where a Quaker teaches school at present. In the meeting-house is a long seat, next the wall, raised a step or two above the floor, where the speakers preach."

"The house of the Minister of Christchurch is in Watergate-lane, in St. Peter's parish, over against Christchurch. It was exchanged for another house in Christchurch parish, assign'd to him according to the Act of Settlement. There is a little garden plot behind the house. The walls and main timber are pretty sound and good, but the window frames, and some of the timber in the back front, are decaying. This house is set by Mr. Synge to one person for £12 per annum. The tenant sets it for about £16 per annum. Mr. Synge keeps it in repair. There are at present 7 families in the house. The old proprietor, in King James' time, upon the breaking the Act of Settlement, took possession of the house, but could get no tenant for it, so that after the troubles it was much out of repair. The Minister of St. Peter's parish has, by way of exchange, a house in the parish of Christchurch, which house was appointed to be the house of the Minister of Christchurch, according to the Act of Settlement." [Downes' Tour.]

1704. Alderman William Allwin, by his will (dated 19th Feb. 1703, and proved 26th January, 1704, bequeathed "unto the English poor of St. Peter's, £20, to be disposed of by the Minister and churchwardens for an annual revenue for the said poor, and the interest to be paid them yearly at Easter for ever." [Cork Wills.]

1709. April 6. "Hugh Hovell, of city of Cork, gent." makes his will, of which the following is an extract—"Item, I leave £10 ster. to buy a toimestone, to be laid over my father's grave in St. Peter's church; my father and mother's names, and the time of their decease, and given by me, all to be cutt in plain characters. Item, I leave £40 sterling, which I desire may be laid out on the erecting of a pirimide or an oblisq of freestone or limestone, to stand a convenient distance in the street of Cork, over right the front of the new Exchange: my name and arms to be hewn on said pirimide, the time of my decease, and what else my 2 trustees think fitt." [Cork Wills.]

1714. The following is inscribed on a large silver salver, weighing 20 oz.—"In usum Ecclie St. Petri Corcagiensis anno Domini 1714."

1716. Thomas Browne, of Cork city, gentleman, in his will (dated 28th Dec. 1713, and proved 14th Feb. 1716), wishes to be buried in his own tomb in St. Peter's, and mentions a former deed, by which he gave to the Minister and churchwardens of St. Peter's and their successors for ever, to the use of the poor of said parish, one annuity of £5 12s. sterling, issuing out of two houses in Brown-street, one in his own tenancy, the other in that of Rev. Evan Davies. [D.R.]

John Whetenhall (son of Edward, Bishop of Cork, by Philippa, dau. of Sir William Doyly, bart.), was born in Essex, and educated at Ross, county Cork, by Mr. Hickson. When seventeen years of age he was entered a Fellow Commoner, T.C.D. on 24th April, 1685.

1719. On two small patens of silver, weighing 9 oz. 18 dwts. and on one silver basin, weighing 19 oz. is inscribed, "In usum Ecclie St. Petri, 1719."

Arthur, the eldest, was created VISCOUNT HARBERTON; and John was a Lieutenant-General in the army, and a Privy Councillor in Ireland.

The Archdeacon died in the spring of 1725, having shown himself a most generous benefactor to the poor; for by his will, dated September 24, 1724, he bequeathed £100 towards building or supporting a charity school in St. Finbar's parish, and £60 worth of his own books to found a parish library there: also, £180 to the Bishop and the Archdeacon of Cork, in trust, for clothing and keeping to school poor children of St. Peter's parish; £50 to the Minister and churchwardens of St. Peter's parish, to be put out to interest for the use of the poor of said parish ; and £5 to the poor of each of the country parishes of which he was Incumbent. [Board of Char. Bequests.] In the library a marble tablet has been deservedly erected to his memory, bearing the following inscription :—

S. M. Kyle (eldest son of Samuel Kyle, Bishop of Cork), was a Scholar of T.C.D. in 1819, and graduated A.B. in 1821, A.M. in 1824. He is also LL.D. of Dublin, and D.C.L. of Cambridge University.

his father, managed, with ability, the affairs of the united diocese. His judgment, as Vicar-General, in the case of *Somer-ville v. 1615. Templeusque als Glanmire ROBERT TRAVERS, diaconus, Rector. Valor 8 li. per an. Curatus residens JOHN GOLD, minister legens. Ecclesia ruinosa, cancella in ruinis. [R.V. R.I.A.]

Robert Travers does not appear elsewhere.

I am inclined to think that this Robert Travers is the same person who was afterwards Sir Robert Travers. I give an extract from a letter of the late John Moore Travers, esq., of Clifton, Cork, which concerns the Travers' pedigree. It is to be noticed that Joseph Travers (Chancellor of Cloyne, q. v.) is omitted by Mr. Travers. This extract is from Craik's "Spenser and his Poetry." Vol. ii., page 250. London: Knight & Co. 1845.

"The family of Travers were settled, in the reign of Edward I., at Natesby, in Lancashire, which estate they held in direct succession from father to son till the reign of Philip and Mary, when it descended to Brian Travers, who sold it (or rather mortgaged it) to George Strickland, who sold it to a person of the name of Leyburne. This Brian Travers afterwards settled at Pill, in the neighbourhood of Bristol, having inherited the estate of Pill in right of his wife. He had a son named John Travers, who came to Ireland when Lord Grey de Wilton came over as Lord Lieutenant, and he was the first of the family of Travers that settled in Ireland. This John Travers married Sarah Spenser, the sister of Edmund Spenser, the poet, who granted to him as a marriage portion with his sister, the townlands of Ardenbane and Knocknacple, in Roches country, in the county of Cork, which was part of 3,028 acres of land, part of the forfeited estate of the Earl of Desmond, granted by Queen Elizabeth to the said Edmund Spenser, in which grant Kilcolman Castle and Lake were comprised. There seems to have been some doubt as to the power of Edmund Spenser to convey away this land to Travers, and, therefore, he passed his bond to Travers for a sum of money by way of guarantee of the title. These lands appear to have been held by the second son of John Travers, but they have not continued in his family. I know not in what way, or by whom they were parted with, nor whether either the grant or the bond be in existence; but neither of them is in the possession of any of the family.

"The above-named John Travers, and Sarah Spenser, his wife, had two sons, viz., Robert Travers, the eldest, afterwards SIR ROBERT TRAVERS, who married Elizabeth, the daughter of the Primate Boyle (ancestor of the EARLS of CORK and ORBERRY and the EARLS of SHANNON), and was Judge-Advocate in Ireland, and Vicar-General of Cork. Sir Robert inherited and purchased several estates in the county of Cork, particularly in the baronies of Ibane and Barryroe, and his principal seat, called Ballinamona, near Courtmacsherry, was situated in these baronies, the estates in which have ever since continued in his family, and are now in my possession, as the lineal descendant of Sir Robert. Sir Robert was killed at the battle of Knocknanness, in the county of Cork, in the rebellion of 1641.

"The second son of John Travers and Sarah Spenser was Zachary Travers. I do not know whom he married; however, he left two sons, viz., Walter, who was the second Provost of Trinity College, Dublin (having succeeded Adam Loftus, who was the first Provost), and John, who having the command of a troop of dragoons, under Lord Broghill, was killed in an ambushade, in the rebellion of Ireland, January, 1642. He left no issue, nor did the Provost, Walter, leave any. The estates of Zachary, which had descended to Walter, he devised to John Travers, the second son of Sir Robert Travers, who was his first cousin; and these estates, which were considerable, thus descended to John Travers, of Garrycloyne, now residing at Birchhill, in the county of Cork.

"Sir Robert Travers left two sons, Richard and John; and two daughters—Margaret, who married Sir Richard Aldworth, the ancestor of the present Lord Doneraile; and Elizabeth, who married Sir John Meade, the ancestor of the present Earl of Clanwilliam. Richard Travers, the eldest son of Sir Robert, who was my great-great-grandfather, married Ellen Stawell. The children of Sir Robert being very young when he was killed, many valuable documents and records of the family were lost, and the title-deeds only were preserved. Richard Travers had five sons. The eldest, Robert, married Hester Hodder, and had Boyle Travers, my grandfather, who married Anna-Maria Moore. Boyle Travers left two sons, John Moore Travers, who died without issue male; and Robert Travers, my father, to whom the estates in Ibane and Barryroe descended, with the family seat of Ballinamona, now in my possession. Robert Travers left three sons, viz., myself, Boyle Travers, a General in her Majesty's service; and Thomas Otho Travers, a Captain in the service of the East India Company, who died July, 1844, at his seat of Leemount, in the county of Cork.

"We have to add that Mr. Travers's only child is the lady of SIR WILLIAM ST. LAWRENCE CLARKE, of Gloucester-place, Portman-square, London."

1699. No Protestants in Templeusky parish, except Mr. Hugh Harding, and Mr. Clark, who go to Rathcony. [V.B. 1699.]

"Oct. 1. 1700. I saw Templeusky Church, the walls of which were built with stone and clay. A great part of the walls is down. It stands about 2 miles distant from Rathcony to the north of Rathcony, near the Dublin road. From this church we saw St. Michael's Church (ruinous) at about a mile distance towards the west. About a mile beyond St. Michael's are the ruins of the church of Dunbullog. This ruinous church is seen from Templeusky church-yard. Templeusky church-yard is fenc'd with a ditch. Templeusky Church is on the left hand of the road from Corke to Rathcormack, about half a mile beyond Glanmire bridge. There have been no churchwardens in this, nor in the other parishes united under Mr. French, for above 20 years last past. This parish was almost all the estate of Mr. Sarsfield, of Sarsfield-court, who forfeited it in the last rebellion. It was granted to the Lord Romney. Mr. Hugh Harding, at Sarsfield-court; Clark, Protestant; and Cahil, a Papist, and Lehy, Papist, live in this parish. If there was a church at Killvillane, or if Templeusky Church was in repair, there would be about 50 persons at a congregation. In these and the adjoining parishes there are at least 10 Papists to 1 Protestant. Several of the inhabitants of Mr. French's union are desirous to have the church of Killvillane rebuilt, but Templeusky seems to stand nearer the centre. This parish is an entire rectory, worth about £40 per an. to the Incumbent. Cornelius Curtine is Popish Priest of this parish and Kilroan als Ballideloughy and Racony. He has been many years in these parishes. The people of this parish go to Racony Church. No glebe in this parish." [Downes' Tour.]

In 1704 French resigned the P. St. Michael's, and took that of Killaspugmullane, with which Prebend Templeusky was held in union until 1842, when Templeusky and Ballydelohar, alias Kilroan, were severed from the P. Killaspugmullane, and formed into a benefice, called Ballydelohar, q. v.
